Letting the Court Die. The World's Copper. Sewed in a Bear Skin. Earth's Strange Motions.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

ACCORDING TO Mussolini the world is preparing feverishly for war. Therefore he cannot allow Italy to disarm, although he would like to save the money and turn his thoughts and efforts to peace.

Every other ruler in Europe will say the same, excepting some Balkan little countries. They say "fighting is the only occupation worthy of a gentleman."

THIS COUNTRY, if it would attend to its own business, keep its defenses in order and keep them MODERN, could save half what it spends on preparation now, and be well prepared.

Meanwhile, it is a pleasure to hear that the World Court has been postponed for another year. Perhaps that is "letting the old rat die out."

OUR GOVERNMENT, afraid of big business, might learn something from the British. They showed us recently what could be done with rubber, making Americans pay outrageously high prices, enough to meet the British debt instalments.

And now two great copper companies in Rhodesia combine, making one company of the B'Wana M'Kubwa and the N'Changa mines.

Sir Auckland Geddes tells of the great advantages to be had from a well-planned trust and was sorry that all companies could not have been put into it.

THE BRITISH hope to get up a company that will dominate the world. Long ago this column called attention to the effect that copper production in Africa might have on values here.

If the United States would let American copper men, Ryan, Jackling and others that understand the industry, combine to protect the United States interests regardless of an antiquated Sherman law, the British would not dominate the copper world so easily.

ANOTHER MORE cheerful day in Wall Street. Perhaps the bottom of the financial world is not going to fall out after all. The better feeling comes a little late for many, unfortunately. They must comfort themselves with the old German saying:

"Who has money can speculate. Who has none can lose nothing."

EVERYTHING IS comparative, even sorrow. The head of a great bank in New York tells of a client "with the saddest face I have ever seen in my life."

One year ago this client was worth at least sixty millions of dollars. And today his fortune is reduced to not more than twenty million dollars.

IVAN THE TERRIBLE, Czar of Russia, to subdue those that opposed him, invented queer punishments.

On one occasion he had a bishop sewed up in a bear skin, and the bishop, in his bear skin, thrown to a pack of half-starved dogs.

The bishop suffered horribly, of course, but only for a few minutes.

His total suffering amounted to far less than the sufferings of some that have seen their fortunes and the results of their life work gradually taken from them, bit by bit during the past year.

HARVARD SENDS reassuring news about this grand old earth, on which men have lived, according to Prof. Osborne, for forty million years, and on which geologists, physicists, astronmers tell us we shall continue to live for at least a million million years more.

Our strange rolling domicile is one with many motions. We all know that it turns around on its axis, rolls around the sun in 365 days, and is traveling through space, accompanying the sun on its journey. But most of us forget about the many other motions of the earth.

WE ARE GLAD to learn from Harvard that a "recent mysterious shaking of the earth's crust was a movement back and forth, rhythmical and regular, six seconds to each swing."

And while the earth's crust does move, it moves only two ten-thousandths of an inch in either direction, the motion continuing for many days

We should be very grateful that little human microbes can be safe on this whirling globe, twenty-five thousand miles around, as heavy as though it were made of solid steel, with hot fire under our feet, and absolute zero, more than 400 degrees below freezing, all around us.

A UNITED STATES judge in New Jersey, as you know, announced from the bench that the prohibition law is not legal. Immediately following this decision, prohibition authorities in Jersey City issued three prohibition search warrants and announced that they would ignore the judge's decision.

If "wets," following the decision of a United States judge, announced that they would pay no attention to it, that would be criticized.

MRS. HARRY KELLY, 26

WOMAN BALKS PURSE GRABBER

Battling an unarmed Negro holdup man who sought to grab her purse until pedestrians started to the scene, Mrs. Harry Kelly, 26, of 1701 Wylie avenue, saved $54 today as the robber fled from Wylie avenue and Congress street.

En route to a downtown bank from the confectionary store of her husband, Mrs. Kelly said the Negro, aged about 35, grabbed for the purse without warning. Her fingers were bruised as he attempted to secure the purse. He knocked her down with a blow to the shoulder and fled in Congress street as pedestrians came to her aid, she said.

CLARK CALLS FAULKNER ON CARPET

Inspector Faces Censure For Ignoring Detectives In Bank Bandit Inquiry

Charles Faulkner, inspector of the North Side police district, was called "on the carpet" today by James M. Clark, director of public safety, to explain why he had ignored his superiors and the detective bureau in the Perry State Bank holdup investigation.

Faulkner is accused of failing to inform his superiors and the detectives of supposed clues to the bandits who held up the bank.

QUIZ ON COLUMBUS TRIP

Clark said he would ask Faulkner what he meant by rushing to Columbus, O., on a "tip" without informing him and others of his mission.

Clark said:

"Faulkner's attitude certainly does not meet with my approval. I have discussed the inspector with Supt. Walsh, and he agrees with me that Faulkner should have given the detectives what information he had, instead of trying to work the bank case lone-handed."

Other developments today in the police and detective drive against the crime wave were:

1. Detectives are holding a young woman who, they say, is an acquaintance of the men who robbed the Perry State Bank last Saturday. They are searching for another woman acquaintance.

2. Thirteen suspects are being held following their arrest early yesterday and last night in connection with several recent robberies.

GIRL THREATENED

City detectives are holding Betty Miller, 22, of Washington County, who, they say, is an acquaintance of one of the Perry bank robbers. The girl, who, sleuths say, had been threatened with death if she gave any information, is being detained for questioning, and for her own protection. No charge has been made against her.

Detectives say she was the source of information which sent

$150,000,000 Farm Board Fund Also Held Up as Borah Asks Information

BULLETIN.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—A filibuster by Senator Howell (Rep.), Nebraska, today blocked action on the Interior Department appropriation bill, one of the vital measures which must be passed before March 4 to avoid an extra session.

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—Further disagreement between the Senate and House arose today to block speedy enactment of the $116,000,000 public buildings construction bill and the $150,000,000 Farm Board measure.

Consideration by the Senate of the House bill appropriating the Farm Board fund out of the $500,000 revolving fund was deferred today on objection of Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho. Senator Jones (Rep.), of Washington, chairman of the Appropriations Committee, had asked for immediate consideration. The bill must now lay over a day.

WANTS INFORMATION

Borah explained he was opposed to appropriating the money to the board until Congress is given a satisfactory explanation of the board's plans for the future.

After a session of half an hour, Senate and House conferees were unable to agree upon the Couzens amendment to the public buildings construction bill and the conference broke up.

The Couzens amendment would provide that contractors awarded work under the bill should employ local labor and at the highest prevailing rate of wages in the district where the work is to be performed. The Senate has approved this amendment, but the House would have none of it.

Thompson to Make Strong Bid for Vote

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—(INS.)—Mayor William Hale Thompson is going to make a determined bid for a fourth term, which would make him the world's fair mayor of Chicago.

This became apparent today when a resolution indorsing his renomination was unanimously adopted at a mass meeting of Republican ward committeemen.

Dry Law Ruling A New Deal With Same Old Cards

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Judge Clark said the Eighteenth Amendment was illegal. Now he says people want prohibition.

Judge, we'll need another amendment for that.

The Judge says that only half the people want beer.

Why not compromise by starting the breweries on half-time?

New Jersey is in a tough spot following the federal ukase that the Eighteenth Amendment is and old Spanish superstition.

If you drink the enforcement agents lash you to the mast.

If you don't drink you are in contempt of court.

There was plenty of excitement over Judge Clark's ultimatum. But now he begins to

MILLER FISHER'S BENCH CHOICE

County Court Judge D. M. Miller is Gov. John S. Fisher's choice, it has been learned, for the vacancy on the Common Pleas Court bench that will occur when Judge James B. Drew resigns to take his seat in Superior Court.

The appointment will be made because of the personal friendship of Gov. Fisher for Judge Miller. They were neighbors and close associates when both lived at Indiana.

The Allegheny County Bar Association referendum on candidates for Judge Drew's seat will end at noon Saturday. Their recommendation, it is understood, will have little weight with Gov Fisher, who, unless Judge Drew retains his Common Pleas judgeship until after January 5, will have the appointment. If Drew does not resign until after the Legislature is in session, Gov. Fisher can only nominate his candidate for the vacancy and the Senate must vote on it. Political observers predict that Judge Drew will, if possible, prevent Fisher naming his successor

Poincare Believed Past Danger Point

Germ-Inoculated Rabbits Stolen From Hospital

Four germ-inoculated rabbits used for experimental purposes were stolen last night from the laboratory of St. Margaret's Hospital, Forty-sixth street, city detectives were notified today.

Hospital authorities asked police to spread a warning against anyone eating the rabbits. To do so, they asserted, would likely result in serious if not fatal illness.

ACTION ON HALL POSTPONED

There will be no action on the town hall this week, County Commissioner E. V. Babcock left last night for Knoxville, Tenn., to attend the funeral of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Clarence L. Babcock, who died at her winter home in Punta Gorda, Fla.

Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong said yesterday that Babcock intends to be back by Tuesday, the regular commissioners' meeting day, and it is possible that the town hall will either be brought up at the meeting or a date set for a special meeting.

Armstrong said:

"This, of course, is a matter for the full board of commissioners and we will take no action until Mr. Babcock returns."

A mass meeting has been called by the North Side Chamber of Commerce for December 29, in North Side Carnegie Hall, to demand action by the County Commissioners on the town hall project.

Warn Against Fake Charity Solicitor

A fake solicitor, selling punchboard chances, allegedly to aid a family in Butler street, and which, he says, is sponsored by the Sun-Telegraph, has been victimizing persons in several sections of the city. The Sun-Telegraph warns the public not to patronize the man, as this paper never sponsors any such schemes. The man is described as short of stature and wearing a cap and sweater.

5 YOUTHS DEAD IN AUTO CRASH

LEWISBURG, Pa., Dec. 19.—(INS.)—Five young men, including W. Wheeler Watson, 23, son of Federal Judge Albert L. Watson, of Wilkes-Barre, were killed near here early today when the automobile in which they were riding crashed into an abutment of the Pennsylvania Railroad underpass, across the river from here.

The dead, in addition to Watson, are: Robert Wilson, 25; Wilbur Gair and Herman Gair, all of Watsontown, and Arthur L. Rohn, 30, a salesman of Canton, O.

Judge Watson and his wife sailed for a trip abroad last night, it was reported here, and have not yet learned of the death of their son.

Edison's Home Town Plans to 'Light Up'

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Dec. 19.—(INS.)—The home town of Thomas A. Edison today made plans to "light up" after it was charged the town was the "most poorly lighted."

The Board of Trade agreed a committee should be named to "do something about it" after Terence A. Mulvey, president of the board, said strangers were "shocked" at the badly lighted streets in the inventor's home city.

FLIER'S QUICK WIT AVERTS DISASTER

Colonel Seizes Hand Pump And Snuffs Blaze Unaided As Anne Sits in Cockpit

BALTIMORE, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's plane caught fire at Logan Field today as he was about to leave for New York with Mrs. Lindbergh, but he extinguished the flames unaided.

Mrs. Lindbergh, the former Anne Morrow, was in the cockpit as oil or gasoline on an exhaust pipe, caught fire, apparently from back-fire. Col. Lindbergh seized a hand fire extinguisher and put out the flames almost immediately.

Mrs. Lindbergh did not leave the cockpit, as she was reassured the danger was past almost as soon as it appeared.

The plane was taken in charge by mechanics for an examination, and it was said it would be ready for the flight in about an hour.

Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh were overnight guests at the home of Dr. William H. Wilmer, eye specialist at Johns Hopkins Hospital. They flew here yesterday from Washington, and visited the clinic named for Dr. Wilmer and Goucher College.

Boy's Fib Wins Lindy Reprimand, Handshake

BALTIMORE, Dec. 19.—(INS.)—Francis Walton, 16, and a group of playmates had an argument yesterday. Said Francis:

"Betcha I can see him."

"Betcha you can't."

So Francis rang the bell of Dr. William H. Wilmer's mansion in Guilford. A maid appeared, and to the surprise of the boys who remained outside, Francis walked inside and the door closed. To the bewildered maid Francis insisted:

"I wanta see Col. Lindbergh; I represent Maj. Tipton."

The aviator heard him and appeared, anxious to meet anybody who represents the prominent Baltimore flier.

Then Francis lost his nerve. He didn't have his friends there to goad him, and his face flushed. He admitted Tipton did not send him.

Nevertheless he saw Lindy and shook his hand.

Later, after Francis had run from the house, he said:

"He told me, 'Don't you know you shouldn't misrepresent things?' and I ran out."

Francis took a dare and made good.

Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh were Dr. Wilmer's dinner guests last night. The doctor is chief of the Wilmer Eye Institute at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Cudahys, 'Half Divorced,' Happy Sweethearts Again

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—The storm that beset the marriage of Michael Cudahy, 22-year-old scion of the meat packing family, and Muriel Evans, petite film actress, has subsided.

Married in the summer of 1929 in Riverside, Cal., after an attempted elopement a few months before to Yuma, Ariz., had resulted in young Cudahy being brought home by the sheriff at his mother's request, Mrs. Cudahy obtained an interlocutory divorce decree October 25, last.

But they weren't happy apart, the young woman explained last night, and became reconciled. She said:

"I'll not apply for my final decree and it won't be a divorce at all—just a separation."

Shortly after their marriage young Cudahy was arrested for driving while intoxicated, convicted and fined $500. With the settlement of the case, he sailed with his bride for Paris. Upon their return reports circulated they planned to separate, and a few months later the divorce suit was filed.

Last night, she said:

"It was a case of 'if we can't be sweethearts, let's be friends,' and now 'if we're friends, let's be sweethearts.'"

Mrs. John P. Cudahy, mother of Michael, said:

9 Missing, Feared Drowned In Fishing Boat Wreck

International News Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 19.—(INS.)—Nine persons were missing today and it is feared they perished when the fishing launch in which they were riding was capsized by waves off Tomales Bay, on the Marin County shore.

First clues to the identity of the launch and victims came from a resident of Marshall, a little community on Point Reyes. There it was revealed that Jack Freas, owner of the launch answering the description of the wrecked craft, and eight others failed to return to their homes last night.

These were Helen and Mary Freas, his daughters; Manuel Augustine, Gertrude and Virginia, his daughters, and Daniel, a son, 6, and Mr. and Mrs. Tony Augustine.

The wreck of the launch was witnessed by Ornburn and Grant Gray, brothers, who made an unsuccessful attempt to rescue the occupants.

4 BIG ROADS NEAR AGREEMENT IN GROUP RAIL MERGERS

TRUNK LINES CALL MEET ON PLANS

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—well defined reports were circulated today that the long delayed agreement on merger plans by the four leading eastern trunk railways may soon be accomplished.

Officials of the Pennsylvania, New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio and the Van Sweringen lines are scheduled to meet here Tuesday and it was intimated an official announcement of a merger plan might be made at that time. Intimation that harmony of the four roads on a program of allocating smaller lines had been reached was strongly made.

LOREE PLANS DOOMED

Plans for building up a fifth trunk line in eastern territory were said to have now been abandoned by the four large roads. If that is the case, doom has been written of the long-cherished plan of L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson, for establishing a fifth major trunk line in eastern territory.

The four-system trunk line plan does not agree with the Interstate Commerce Commission plan of the eastern field, but the four railways were said to be preparing to present their scheme before the commission at an early date.

EFFECT ON PITTSBURGH

The four railroad giants of the eastern territory are drawing near to complete agreement on a consolidation plan. They have not taken into consideration the proposed construction of the $177,000,000 New York, Pittsburgh and Chicago Railroad across Pennsylvania, but their scheme would not bar the building of this line by L. F. Loree.

The proposal of the carriers would eliminate the fifth eastern trunk line systems proposed by Loree and the Interstate Commerce Commission. It might block the formation of the Great Lakes to Seaboard trunk line to be built around the Pittsburgh and West Virginia.—Editor's Note.]

SALES SCHEDULED

The main points in the plan, now being completed by the four railways, call for the sale by the Pennsylvania of its holdings in the Lehigh Valley to the Chesapeake and Ohio, nucleus of the Van Swearingen brothers' share in the proposed arrangement.

The Baltimore and Ohio, it was reported, is to get the New York Central's share in the Reading, thereby obtaining in conjunction with its interest in the Jersey Central, direct entry into New York.

The New York Central will get full claim to the Lackawanna, giving a shorter and more direct route to Buffalo.

AGREEMENT URGED

While reports of the merger plan were made, Prof. William Z. Ripley, of Harvard University, was calling upon railway presidents of the country to reach an agreement on consolidation policy, which he said was essential now more than ever. Speaking at the dinner of the National Association of Owners of Railroads and Public Utility Securities, Ripley said:

"Hard times have proved the railroads must effect every possible economy of operation.

"But with the strictest economy in 1930 they have been unable to earn anything like a fair return prescribed by law."

Ripley charged most of the railways "are operating upon a wastefully competitive rather than an economic basis." He said no one wanted consolidations that would lessen competition, but said "it was possible to effect consolidations that will be both competitive and economic."

DAVIS SEES AID FUND BOOST

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—According to United States Senator James J. Davis, President Hoover is planning a $500,000,000 program of public works in an effort to relieve the unemployment situation.

Addressing the New Jersey Society of Pennsylvania at its annual dinner, the junior senator from Pennsylvania and former secretary of labor under Hoover, did not go into details concerning the program. He denounced the President's critics on the unemployment situation and added:

"There is no one in the land who works harder or more efficiently than the President of the United States. I know this because I have seen him at work and have worked for him.

"With our great national resources, I am certain that we will again enjoy prosperous times. It is only necessary to go back to 1921 to find more men out of work than there are today."

ACTION AGAINST WRIGHT ENDS

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 19.—(INS.)—Settlement by Frank Lloyd Wright, internationally-known architect, of a judgment of $7,018 obtained against him by his former wife, Miriam Noel Wright, a few months before her death last January, was indicated today after the estate's executor said he was convinced Wright had no assets.

Notice of withdrawal of a motion for appointment of a receiver to handle Wright's affairs was made by Attorney Max Fromkin, one of the executors of Mrs. Wright's estate, when a court commissioner's hearing convened late yesterday.

The hearing originally was set for December 3, the day following the arrest of the architect on a civil warrant when he came here to give a lecture.

COUNCIL VOTES KLINE OFFICE $63,773

Same Amount as Last Year Set Up in Budget for Mayor's Staff Expenses

Estimates on city departmental expenses for 1931 received attention yesterday in Council's budget deliberations.

Increases in costs were permitted some departments, while a few lost small amounts. An estimated cost of $63,773 for operation of the Mayor's office was approved. The amount was the same as for 1930.

CONTROLLER FUND LARGER

An estimated cost of $123,176, an increase of $14,000 over 1930, was approved for operation of the city controller's office. The increase, councilmen said, was made necessary by the new billing bureau, recently installed. The same bureau caused a reduction of $10,000 in the treasurer's office fund, to $107,035. A number of bills in the treasurer's office are cared for by the bureau, it was said.

Temporary salaries provided for in the office of the collector of delinquent taxes resulted in an increase of $21,754. The new amount stands at $93,799.

An item of $3,575 for the department of city development was approved.

COURT FUNDS APPROVED

Expenses of the various city courts and police magistrates' salaries received councilmanic sanction.

The appropriations were:

Salaries of magistrates, $29,920; Morals Court, $6,318, and Traffic Court, $31,184. Council estimated $199,020 for operation of the City Clerk's office. A setup of $120,000 for advertising of ordinances and city business in newspapers during 1930, was cut to $90,000 for next year.

PROVIDE CHARITY FUND

Provision was also made in the clerk's expenses for $15,000 applicable to the Helping Hand Society, should that charity organization at any time need the money. Council has already donated $5,000 to the society.

Provision of $15,000 to help defray expenses of the Nineteenth Annual Safety Congress here last October was included in the estimate. Budget estimates will be continued today.

4 THEFT RING SUSPECTS HELD

Two, Enoch Minor, 25, of 227 East General Robinson street, and Andy Wiggins, 28, of 404 Second avenue, Carnegie, were sent to jail in default of $7,000 bail each on four charges of larceny and entering a building. They confessed, police said, to stealing sugar valued at $1,500 from A. T. Schomaker, baker supply house, 839 Lockhart street, and from W. S. Schomaker as well as typewriters and adding machines from other business houses.

The other two, Pete Novrades, proprietor of a shop, 205 Anderson street, and Joe Broca, proprietor of a store, 947 Western avenue, were held on charges of receiving stolen goods.

SHEPARD TRIAL SENSATIONAL AT CLOSE

Nurse's Story That Major's Liquor Was Suspected in Wife's Death Draws Denial

International News Service.

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Dec. 19.—Testimony of witnesses in the murder trial of Maj. Charles A. Shepard, came to an end in Federal Court here when the defense closed its case shortly before noon today following the introduction of highly sensational testimony by both sides.

The government closed its case after having recalled Miss Clara Brown to the stand.

Miss Brown, a Topeka nurse, who had attended Mrs. Zenana Shepard during her fatal illness, virtually had repeated the testimony she gave yesterday when she related a conversation she was said to have had with Mrs. Shepard, in which the dying woman accused Maj. Shepard of poisoning her by giving her a drink from a bottle of whisky.

Maj. W. A. Rose, defense witness, following Miss Brown to the stand, testified:

"I drank the liquor remaining in the bottle and I didn't feel any ill effects from it. It was what I would describe as Kansas corn."

Then came Capt. P. L. Holycross, who said:

"I saw him drink it."

Shepard himself took the stand briefly to answer the nurse's story and Maj. E. Strickler, chief of the medical staff at Fort Riley, a psychiatrist, then testified for the defense that Mrs. Shepard was not responsible for what she said.

The nurse's testimony was stricken from the records when she gave it yesterday, but went before the jury today over repeated objections by the defense.

HARMONY SEEN ON AID PLANS

The plan of administration leaders, approved by Insurgents and Democrats, included final passage of the compromise $45,000,000 drought loan bill, the $116,000,000 public works bill and the $150,000,000 Federal Farm Board appropriation this week. Unless these bills are enacted by tomorrow night, Congress will be held in session next week. Otherwise the Christmas holiday will start Saturday and run until January 5.

The compromise $45,000,000 drought bill, which Senator George W. Norris, Insurgent leader, helped to negotiate, will be promptly approved by both House and Senate.

The conferees eliminated outright food loans, as desired by the President, but inserted a phrase permitting loans for "other purposes incident to crop production," which may include the purchase of food. The total fund represented a half-way compromise between the $60,000,000 passed by the Senate and the $30,000,000 fund approved by the House. It satisfied both ends of the Capitol.

The snag on the $116,000,000 public works bill developed today after the main issue between the White House and Congress was eliminated when the Senate receded from its earlier action in placing a ban on President Hoover's power to interchange appropriations between waterway and road projects. The President's unexpected victory on this issue was due to Democratic and Insurgent support. The result pacified all factions.

FARM BOARD BILL

There will be no serious opposition, if any, to the $150,000,000 Farm Board bill. The measure passed the House yesterday and has the approval of the Senate Appropriations Committee. Chairman Alexander Legge appealed for its immediate enactment, because the Farm Board has "overspent" itself. Legge confessed the board was obligated for $41,000,000 and had but $30,000,000 in its treasury.

This action on the President's program did not really bring peace to Capitol Hill. It developed more from the overwhelming urge to get away from Washington for the holidays. The real battle will begin when they return in the new year.

AVIATRIX DIES FROM INJURIES

TONOPAH, Nev., Dec. 19.—(AP.)—Mrs. Claire Fahy, Los Angeles aviatrix, died here today from injuries suffered in a plane crash Monday. The body will be taken to Los Angeles by airplane.

'Airplane Widow' Sues for Divorce

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—Figuratively speaking, Mrs. Laura M. Meyer charged that her former love had taken wings and had been flying around in an airplane. She objected, she said, because her money had purchased the machine. This was the explanation she gave in filing a suit for separation from her husband, Edward. At the same time she asked the court to impound the airplane.

The Meyers separated, she said, last September 25.

JUDGE FLAYS N. Y. LAWS ON DIVORCE

Justice Levy Lays Perjury And Collusion to Strict Statute; Urges Change

An interview with Justice Aaron J. Levy, of New York, the fifth of a series in an unusual discussion of divorce laws, is published today. It presents his views, based on the experience of hearing hundreds of divorce cases under the New York statutes as justice of the Supreme Court.

The question under discussion is whether divorce laws should be more liberal or more stringent.

By JUSTICE AARON J. LEVY.

I have heard hundreds—yes, thousands—of suits for divorce or separation. And I have been ashamed. Our law is flouted; our courts are desecrated; our moral fiber has been wrecked.

THE FAULT IS THE LAW.

Our divorce court rooms reek of perjury. They are fouled by collusion. And the courts are helpless.

THE FAULT IN THE LAW.

The law says divorce—that is the voiding of the contract of marriage—can be accomplished only when either party to the contract is guilty of unfaithfulness. No other cause for divorce save the highly specialized cases that may arise under Enoch Arden Act and annulments resulted from certain specific causes.

Justice Aaron J. Levy

LAW STRETCHED

It is a hard law and when a law is hard, those who administer it, seeking to soften it. The law is stretched.

Those who commit infidelity seldom advertise the fact. They do not send out postal cards, giving the time, the place and the girl—or the boy involved. So, to establish proof, the courts permit circumstance and intent to become evidence. And the circumstance may point to guilt or to innocence. So, again, the law permits the presumption of guilt to find its place on the record.

URGES BROADER STATUTE

I firmly believe the law should be broadened. It is my belief that a liberal statute under which the contract of marriage could be voided exactly as a contract of business may be voided, would produce fewer divorces than we now have.

And whether more or less, it certainly would build up respect for the law.

The attacks made on the Eighteenth Amendment are based, in part, on the theory that disrespect for that particular law has destroyed respect for all laws. Without going into the prohibition question, if that argument is good in that case, it is even better in the matter of the evasions of the present divorce law.

Whether there should be a universal divorce law, I am not prepared to say. For one thing, I doubt there ever can be. I do not believe the states will surrender their individual rights. If Nevada had 18 reasons for granting divorce, I feel certain Nevada will want to retain those 18.

FAVORS DOMICILE CURB

But there is one thing I do want to see happen. I am forever in hope that a commission from each of the 48 states may be assembled at which there will be concurrence on at least one point in all divorce laws—that is, the question of actual domicile within the boundaries of a state.

Make that period of domicile whatever may be determined as best. But make it uniform. Nothing has brought our divorce laws into greater disrepute than the knowledge that by the simple expedient of establishing a legal residence in another state, a divorce may be obtained when it would be denied in the state where the parties actually live. If the man or woman—or both—want to take advantage of the laws of Nevada, make them become actual residents of Nevada.

DIVORCES BY TELEGRAPH

It is not exaggeration to say that in one state of old Mexico it is possible to arrange for a divorce by telegraph. Think of it. How can there be respect for a law which is open to such easy evasion.

The right to divorce must not be denied. But that right must be predicated upon the causes that lead to the desire for divorce. Do not impose the necessity of immorality upon moral persons who legitimately desire to conclude a contract into which they have entered in good faith and which they wish to leave in good faith.

Dull Times Prove U. S. Strength, Coolidge Says

To the Editor of The Sun-Telegraph:

This universe into which we are born, with all its weaknesses and imperfections, yet with all its strength and progress, is the only one in which we can live and we may as well make the best of it. The people with whom we come in contact, the business organizations which we have formed and the government we have adopted are the only ones we have, and we can hope for improvement only by working with them and for them with all our ability. We cannot receive the benefits of prosperity and escape bearing the burdens of adversity.

Calvin Coolidge

Every other nation looks on us with envy. When their governments are being overturned by disorder and revolution, our own country is quiet and orderly, our government is strong and responsive to the needs of the people, and our greatest city is able to contribute over $10,000 per hour for a month of charitable relief.

The moral force of the country, the courage and confidence of the people, the ability to live nobly have been emphasized by our problems. The people of the United States are showing they can meet their obligations to each other and to the world.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

Pauline Loses Hubby No. 4 In Sick Bed Court Scene

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—For the fourth time the marriage bark of Pauline Frederick, stage and screen actress, lay in wreckage today on the shoals of legal separation.

Leighton, being too ill to go to court to prosecute his suit, was granted his freedom after a brief court hearing at his bedside in the Beverly Hills Hotel.

Propped up on pillows, Leighton testified:

Miss Frederick, born Pauline Libby in Boston 42 years ago, married Frank M. Andrews, New York architect, shortly after she launched her stage career. They were divorced a few years later.

Miss Frederick was not present at the hearing. She was in Portland, Ore., where she finished a theater engagement last week.

U. S. FLAG SHIELDED CZAR'S REMAINS, AMERICAN REVEALS

RUDE CASKET ON STRANGE JOURNEY

Royal Dead Shipped Through Europe and Asia Before Burial in Paris Vault

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—How the American flag shielded the remains of the murdered Russian royal family on a strange pilgrimage throughout Europe and Asia which ended in a cemetery outside of Paris, was revealed here today by Franklin Clarkin, formerly United States vice consul in Siberia.

The story of the wanderings of the royal remains following execution of Czar Nicholas and his family by a Bolshevist firing squad in a cellar at Ekaterindberg, Siberia, was first revealed in a startling book written abroad by the French general Janin, commander of the Czech Legionaires in Siberia after the war.

BURIED NEAR PARIS

Gen. Janin revealed that he had accorded the remains a "decent burial" in his family vault near Paris after everyone else had refused custody of the tragic relics of Russia's last royal family.

"No living member of the Romanoff family wanted to take charge of the remains. There was intense rivalry between the survivors, and none wanted to do anything which might endanger their claims to the throne vacated by the overthrow of Czar Nicholas.

"They were uncertain of the attitude of the Russian people, and feared possession of the royal remains might prove more of a liability than an asset."

For this reason, Clarkin revealed, the remains, inclosed in a cheap peasant's clothing box of wood, were unknowingly carried through hostile lines under the American flag, in an American consular train, on a roundabout secret transfer to Europe following downfall of Admiral Kolchak's government in Omsk.

SHIPPED ON TRAIN

Clarkin told how he boarded the consular train in weather 20 degrees below zero at Harbin. He said:

"It was cozy in the consul general's car; a roll-top desk, books, filing cases, an engraving of Washington, the flag, a department eagle and a let-down table and chairs, and the Austrian war-prisoner cook brought some defrigerating medicament and hot water. Against a box under the table one pounded one's heels to start circulation.

"'Careful there. That might be dynamite,' we were cautioned. Odd baggage it looked, roughly bound with ropes like an immigrant's trunk. After dinner we played poker, the box interfering with our comfort."

BOX TAKEN AWAY

The next day, according to Clarkin, American Consul General Harris revealed with intense relief that the box had been taken away by the Czech Gen. Horvath for safe keeping. One of the four officers who had carried the box away with deference and care had turned to Harris and said:

"You know not what you have brought? You have brought, Excellency, all that is left of the Czar and the Imperial family of Russia."

From Harbin the box was shipped to Shanghai and thence to a small port on the Gulf of Trieste. Next it went to Rumania, awaiting a favorable opportunity for shipment back to Russia, which never came. And at length it ended its strange pilgrimage in Gen. Janin's vault near Paris.

Clarkin quoted Consul General Harris as saying the box contained nothing but ashes, scraps of dress, parts of bodies, shattered and burnt bone a hatchet and the marriage finger of the Czarina with the ring driven in it to hinder identification. The relics had been removed from a mine hole where they were flung after the ravage had been completed.

Husband Convicted In Insurance Killing

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—Ernest Pryor, of Martinsville, Ind., was convicted of voluntary manslaughter today after a trial on the charge of poisoning his wife Carrie Thelma Pryor, 21. He was sentenced to serve 2 to 21 years in the penitentiary.

Pryor was accused of poisoning his wife to obtain $3,000 on an insurance policy. The state introduced evidence of an illicit love affair.

Lipstick Downfall Of 2 Auto Bandits

ROCKFORD, Ill., Dec. 19.—(AP.)—Two men who robbed Mrs. Henry Larson last night took everything but her lipstick—and that proved their undoing. They destroyed a pencil in her hand bag so she would be unable to write the license number of their car. She used the lipstick as a pencil. A few hours later the pair, who gave their names at Victor Zambrowski and Joseph Shestokes, were arrested.

OFFERS CITY MONORAIL SYSTEM

Promoter Proposes Rapid Transit at Nickel Fare; Would Give Council Plan

A suspended monorail system which would give Pittsburgh rapid transit within a year, give everyone a seat for five cents and would be operated at a profit was outlined yesterday by Frank S. Lyon, president of Atlantic Suspended Monorail Corporation.

City Council, which ordered an investigation into the plan, will be given the facts whenever that body makes a request, Lyon said.

Promoters of the monorail system say it is adaptable to Pittsburgh streets, the cars while seating 80 each, are lighter than the present one-man surface cars, are as fast as New York subways and is without the disadvantages of the New York elevated.

OPERATING IN EUROPE

Although the system is in use in only one city and that in Europe, Queens Borough, New York, had started plans to build the monorail and Manhattan is considering it, Lyon said. He declared:

"A three-foot safety zone is required in the center of the street, which divides the surface traffic. Steel posts at intervals of 50 feet hold up the double eyebeams, which hold the rails on which the cars are suspended.

"Germany has a line which, somewhat different but essentially the same, has carried one billion people without an injury or death.

NOISE DECREASED

"The center post is not a necessity, for brackets from the buildings, from the bridges, from cliff walls can be installed when necessary. The center brackets are suggested in the main streets because they do not spread and shut off daylight, and the rails are covered to decrease noise—two of the main objections to the elevated systems used today.

"Pittsburgh presents no insurmountable problems. We can build as much as the city wants in a year at $1,000,000 a mile. This includes everything, equipment and all. With the center brackets this means double track.

"Subways are 10 times as expensive; other elevated systems are at least three times as costly. This million a mile doesn't provide for the building of power stations, for we suppose that the electricity would come from already-established plants."

Asked how he would put the trains into the South Hills, Mr. Lyon said he would slide them along the hillside, rending the cars up a 4 per cent grade, with brackets protruding from the hillside.

"Pittsburgh's hills and curves are no great problem. We simply step up the towers and keep the grade within 4 per cent. And nearly every bit of the work could be done in the Pittsburgh district—cars, motors, etc."

CHAIR SOUGHT FOR CAPONE

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—Judge John H. Lyle today was quoted as saying efforts would be made to send Alphonse Capone, gang chief, to the electric chair in connection with the slaying of two men.

Judge Lyle, who issued a vagrancy warrant for Capone several months ago, declared:

"We will send Capone to the chair, if it is possible to do so. He deserves to die. He has no right to live."

Speaking before the Chicago Safety Council the judge mentioned Capone's name in connection with the killing in 1920 of "Big Jim" Colosimo, reputed "vice-lord" and also in connection with the death of another man whose name he did not reveal. The Herald and Examiner, however, said the state's attorney's office was scrutinizing the files of the case of Joseph Howard, slain May 8, 1924, with the idea of making it the basis of a murder charge.

2 PLANES JOIN BANDIT HUNT

SAFFORD, Ala., Dec. 19.—(AP.)—Two airplanes joined the search this morning for four bank bandits believed hiding in Bogue Chitto swamp, three miles from here.

The planes took off at dawn and began circling at low altitude the two-mile stretch of swamp lands. Meanwhile, the ground forces of more than 300, composed of national guardsmen, sheriff's deputies and citizens, were reinforced with a new pack of bloodhounds, brought in the planes from Mississippi to replace those brought here yesterday from Kilby prison, the state penitentiary, at Montgomery, and shot down by the bandits when they were tracked to their places of hiding.

HEARST PAPERS PRAISED

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 19.—(Universal.)—Dr. Willis A. Sutton, of Atlanta, Ga., president of the National Education Association, yesterday commended the Hearst newspapers for their support of the plan for a national department of education with a secretary in the cabinet. Dr. Sutton said the Hearst publications had given more effective support to this idea than any other papers in America, and added:

"I wish to stress one of the objectives of this year in our work, which is a better understanding between business and education. I am interested in showing that it is necessary to have a better relationship between education and business, as we educators must establish a more definite relation in our local communities to the business and professional interests. Business leaders have thought that schools are idealistic, impractical and often wasteful and extravagant. We have felt that this was hard and soulless because they restricted certain forms of taxation.

"The two must be brought to understand each other. Business must know that education is the chief creator of business and education must understand that business comprises the means to promote education."

Lindsey Won't File Suit Against Bishop

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—(INS.)—"The fight for companionate marriage" has just been started, according to former Judge Ben B. Lindsey, of Denver, who today made plans for a nation-wide lecture tour.

He announced he had decided not to bring a slander suit against Bishop William T. Manning, who attacked the judge's personal record and companionate marriage in a sermon at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

FIRE IN DONORA CLOSES MILLS

DONORA, Pa., Dec. 19.—The entire Donora works of the American Steel and Wire Company was temporarily paralyzed by a fire early today which destroyed a building housing the pipe shop and the millwright department, and which damaged the adjoining power house.

Flames broke out in the pipe shop at 2:30 a. m. and before firemen, hampered by low water pressure, could control the fire, it spread to the power house. Police said damage will be about $50,000.

Firemen were forced to pump water from railroad engines in the yards of the works, and the fire was not brought under control until 6 a. m. With the crippling of machinery in the power house the entire works was stopped, spoiling more than 10 tons of steel in the blooming mill, it was said.

About a thousand men will be thrown out of work until repairs on the power house are made. Officials said the plant probably would begin work again in a day or two. Cause of the fire was not determined.

Explosion Victim Sues for $100,000

Robert S. Kynor, Pennsylvania Railroad station agent at Munhall, today asked $100,000 damage from the Equitable Gas Company for injuries received when a gas main exploded in 1929, destroying the Munhall postoffice. Kynor alleged his sight was permanently injured and that he had suffered other injuries.

WALES RALLIES FROM ILLNESS

LONDON, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—The chill from which the Prince of Wales suffered yesterday is taking its normal course, it was stated at his residence, York House, today. He was said to have had a good night.

The British public and press, accustomed to official honesty with regard to illness of its royal figures, took the York House statements at face value and accepted the official explanation of the prince's malady as a "slight chill."

It was said that his temperature was down and that he was much better last night before he retired. He was described as cheerful, although cut out of a day's hunting, his first in several months, and it was considered not necessary to issue official bulletins.

The Prince of Wales has suffered from only an occasional illness in the 36 years of his life. During his recent visit to Africa, he was taken down with tertiary malaria, in which one of the chills and phases is intermittent fever, but he soon recovered. Always he has proved a good patient and has been readily amenable to physicians' instructions.

BUCKLEY JURY CALLS ACTRESS

DETROIT, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—A burlesque actress who admitted, according to police, that hers was the voice which called Gerald E. Buckley to his death, will tell the 22-man Wayne County grand jury her story today, if her condition permits.

The actress is Margaret Owen, 22, who has been in the psychopathic ward of Receiving Hospital since November 29, when she claimed she had been given poisoned whisky to prevent her from testifying in another murder case.

Police said yesterday she said she had been prompted by a man whose identity has not been revealed to call the radio political commentator by telephone and invite him to a party to celebrate the recall of Mayor Charles Bowles. She said Buckley was to meet her in the lobby of the La Salle Hotel.

New York Robbers Get $7,000, Escape

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—(INS.)—From $7,000 to $10,000 was obtained by three robbers who looted the offices of a stores delivery company last night, officials said today. While more than 50 employes were at work in the building, the robbers trussed up four men in the office, took the cash and escaped.

CONAN DOYLE'S SPIRIT 'NEAR'

CROWBOROUGH, Sussex, Dec. 19.—(INS.)—Convinced that the spirit of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle remained close to the earth in order to help the living, Lady Doyle said today it was watching over her in the form of a white dove frequently seen near the garden spot here where the famed spiritualist and creator of Sherlock Holmes is buried.

Lady Doyle added that messages she herself received from Sir Arthur informed her he had deliberately chosen to remain close to earth instead of receding "to higher places" in order to proffer an unseen hand to the spiritualist efforts of earthbound beings.

Lady Doyle, saying she had been in constant communication with Sir Arthur since his death, added:

"He's close to us. It's only his unselfish love for us and a desire to help the spiritualist movement which kept him from going higher."

EVANSTON, Ill., Dec. 19.—(AP.)—Evanston voted for Sunday movies by a majority of 56 votes, but can't have them, at least for some time, Judge Philip L. Sullivan has ruled. NEEDLESS LEAP KILLS FLIER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—The designer of a new Army bombing plane lost confidence in his own craft last night as the motors sputtered. He jumped and died, while the plane was landed safely.

Stephen A. Forberger, project engineer of the Fokker company, was killed, apparently because the parachute he carried had no time to break the fall before his body hit a tree. The ripcord had been pulled, but the plane had insufficient altitude for a successful jump. Lieut. Harrison G. Crocker, of the Army Air Corps, did not even know his passenger had leaped until he had brought the ship down virtually undamaged a mile away from where Forberger died.

GIRL QUIZZED IN SEARCH FOR BANDITS

Detectives are hunting another woman they say is acquainted with the members of the robber band.

According to Detective Inspector Frank Boyd, Miss Miller received a letter from a man known as "Benny," said to be the "brains" of the gang who held up the Perry bank. In the letter, they say, she was threatened with death if she informed police of the whereabouts of the robbers. She also was ordered to keep "Benny" informed of police activities.

POLICE TRIP FRUITLESS

From her was obtained a supposed Columbus address of "Benny." Inspector Faulkner left by automobile for Columbus, taking with him Precinct Detectives Earl McDonald and Jacob Isler.

Faulkner's trip to Columbus was fruitless. The address proved to be a hoax, it was learned when Faulkner and his party returned last night.

CHARGE INTERFERENCE

The North Side police, they say, have not yet turned over to them the revolvers recovered at the time part of the loot of the Perry Bank was found in a Tripoli street rooming house.

Not until yesterday had the detectives been given information concerning the revolvers, they say, and that information was only a telephone call from Police Lieut. Harry Moore, who sought their aid in tracing the ownership of one of the revolvers through a serial number. A complete description of the revolvers should have been furnished them, detectives say.

Superintendent Walsh and Director Clark discussed Faulkner's leaving the city suddenly yesterday.

CAUTION URGED

Walsh said:

"In running down information of this sort, Police should work cautiously. We, Clark and myself, are not pleased with the methods of Inspector Faulkner."

Inspector Boyd declared:

"Neither my men nor I want any personal glory in capturing these bandits. All I am concerned about is their apprehension. I don't want to get into any controversy with North Side police, but their action in not informing us that they were going out of the city is certainly anything but co-operation."

SUSPECT RELEASED

Patsy Traficani, 33, of 314 Hale street, arrested as a suspect in the holdup December 6 of the Allegheny Valley Trust Company, at Verona, in which Charles N. McFarland was killed, was released several hours later when witnesses failed to identify him at the Verona police station.

Search was begun for Traficani when witnesses of the holdup expressed a desire to see him after his picture had been shown them.

FIVE TAKEN IN CHASE

Five young men arrested in a stolen automobile in a chase through a half-dozen streets in Herron Hill, which ended after police had punctured the tires on the machine with a volley of shots, were being held on suspicious person charges in the Penn Avenue Police Station.

They gave their names as Charles Dennis, 25, of 6110 Broad street; Alpheus Schupp, 25, of 3022 Ashlyn street; Sam Maggio, 25, of 533½ North Aiken avenue; Edward Christian, 20, of 531 Collins avenue, and William Schettler, 24, of 921 North Murtland avenue.

The automobile, stolen from in front of a dwelling in Neville street several hours before, police said, was observed speeding over the Thirty-fourth Street Bridge by a cruising squad of police. It sped up Herron avenue to Paulowna street, to Thirtieth street, to Brereton avenue and to Herron avenue again.

POLICEMAN OPENS FIRE

As it ran down Herron avenue with the police car closely behind, Patrolman Daniel Owens stepped onto the running board and began firing from a shotgun. The shots punctured tires on the fleeing car and brought it to a halt. One loaded revolver was found in the stolen car and another in Herron avenue, the police said. The pistol found in the street was discarded by Schupp, police said he admitted.

A few hours later the same police, cruising in Penn avenue, came upon an automobile with three passengers at Thirty-fourth street and Penn avenue. Ordered out of the car, the driver sped away, the police car in close pursuit.

At Twenty-sixth street the police car forced the other to the curb, and the occupants were arrested. Police said they found three unloaded revolvers in the car. At Penn Avenue Police Station the men gave their names as Charles Dubunski, 25, of 529 Tripoli street; Clifford Satarfield, 21, of 612 Main street, Sharpsburg, and Kenneth Baldwin, 25, of 801 Federal street. They were charged with being suspicious persons.

STORES HELD UP

Two bandits robbed two groceries and were frustratedd in the third when a brother of the proprietor leaped on an intruder brandishing a revolver.

When the pair walked into the grocery of Peter Rosella, 6361 Dean street, Rosella's brother, C. Rosella, entered from the rear room, leaped on the man holding the revolver, and struggled with him on the floor. The bandit broke away and, with his companion, fled to the street.

The same two men, police reported, obtained $1.50 in the holdup of the grocery of W. H. Rose, 809 Lincoln avenue. From another store at 5701 Hays street, conducted by David Brinn, the thugs stole $25.

EIGHT OTHERS HELD

Eight other men were being held by police as bandit suspects, four at the East End Police Station and four at the Forty-third Street Station. The four under arrest at the latter station, according to police, were Thomas Moreman, 19, of 148 Forty-fourth street; Eugene Martin, 19, of 4630 Hatfield street; Frank Womacki, 19, of 5744 Butler street, and William Black, 19, of 4024 Butler street. They are said to have participated in holdups in Schenley and Highland parks.

Arrested in Woods Run early yesterday, four young men were turned over to East End police for investigation. They were docketed as Michael Austerlitz, 19, of 1012 North Wheeler street; Anthony Mitchell, 19, of 7231 Tioga street; Percy Maratto, 19, of 6119 Tener way, and Frank Tomario, 20, of 7307 Susquehanna street.

ROBBED OF FOODSTUFFS

Steven Smith, a huckster, of 1615 Forbes street, reported to police today that while he was putting his truck away in the rear of his home late last night five Negroes held him up and stole 15 sacks of potatoes, two sacks of onions and 18 bushels of apples, which they loaded into a truck and carted away. The loot was valued at $65.

DR. MICHELSON WAITS EINSTEIN

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 19.—(AP.)—Dr. Albert A. Michelson, first American physicist to win the Nobel prize, and recipient of many other awards for scientific achievement, is 78 years old today.

But birthday anniversaries do not interest him. He is interested in completing his final experiment to determine the speed of light and in the approaching visit of Dr. Albert Einstein to California. He said:

"Within three weeks we hope to have the equipment installed so I can find and eliminate the error in my calculations of the speed of light. Then I'll rest on my oars."

More than three years ago he found light traveled 186,284 miles per second.

U. S. Woman Robbed On Simplon Express

ISTANBUL, TURKEY, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—As the Simplon Express crossed Jugoslavia on the way to Istanbul last night a thief picked a lock on a sleeping compartment and stole a $25,000 pearl necklace from Mrs. Philip E. King, wife of the American director for the Gary Tobacco Company in Turkey.

'Tickletoes' Spreading Real Christmas Cheer

Dear Little Girls:

No matter what the weather, every minute of my busy day is a minute of real sunshine. Scores and scores of little girls are coming in for my wonder "Tickletoes" dolls, which they have so easily earned, and my only hope is that every little girl who wants one will have her "Tickletoes" before Christmas. I have had to employ more and more assistants every day, and they all have their hands full in the distribution of these big, lovable, adorable dolls.

Every little girl who gets one insists on carrying it home in her own little arms, but "Tickletoes" is so big that they have to let mother or sister or daddy do it. While I was out to luncheon yesterday I saw a tiny little girl in a real battle with her mother to get possession of the box that held her "Tickletoes." Well, mamma gave the box to the little tot, but after carrying it just a few feet it had to be surrendered to mother again.

It isn't too late to get "Tickletoes" for Christmas, but it means fast work on the part of the little girls who want one. Your parents and your sisters and brothers, however, will help and if you'll send in my coupon today there is a fair chance that you can have "Tickletoes" for a playmate for Christmas.

It isn't necessary to tell you much more about "Tickletoes." She's unbreakable, 20 inches tall, pretty as a picture, has three separate voices, clasps her hands and plays with her toes, sits down like a real baby, has rubber arms and rubber legs and is beautifully gowned in organdy.

Here are the names of some of the little girls who have sent in my coupon within the last few days: June Bowser, Betty Sage, Betty Campbell, Louise Ellis, Jane Milleman, Eleanor Hookey, Wilda Haney, Dorothy Coleman, Eileen Foster, Jane Carty, Phyllis Scott, Helen Milliren, Ruth Nye, Marilyn Flinn, Pauline Reith, Ruth Schafer, Nora Morocco, Betty Wells, Shirley Nockow, Mary Keener, Carolyn Richardson, Marian Thomas, Francis Pitts, Betty Upton, Katherine Juth, Stella Elias, Alice Burns, Elizabeth Whitney, Martha Dains and Laura Gray.

Now don't wait—send in the coupon today and you'll get a letter in the next mail telling you how you can get "Tickletoes" for a playmate.

Merry Christmas!

EARLY DECISION IN DRY TEST EXPECTED

U. S. Seeks to Have Appeal On Ruling Holding Law Void Advanced by Court

International News Service.

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 19.—An early decision was expected today in the appeal to the United States Supreme Court on Judge William Clark's ruling that the Eighteenth Amendment was invalid.

Federal Attorney Philip Forman, as he entered notice of appeal here yesterday, announced he had been informed by Solicitor General Thomas D. Thacher, in Washington, that an attempt would be made to advance the case on the high court calendar.

If the government motion to advance the case is granted, the appeal will be put ahead of pending cases and the Supreme Court will rule on it in the present session, which ends in June, it was understood.

ACTION RUSHED

Federal Attorney Forman and Defense Counsel Frederic M. P. Pearse met in Judge Clark's chambers in the Federal Building here yesterday. William Sprague and William Howey, the farmer and the innkeeper whose arrests began the case, waited nearby in the lawyers' office.

The steps taken in the appeal were simple. Judge Clark formally quashed the indictment against Sprague and Howey. He then received from Forman an assignment of errors. It remained for him only to sign "appeal allowed William Clark" at the bottom of the notice of appeal, and the matter was completed. Pearse assented to the appeal to expedite matters.

ERRORS CLAIMS LISTED

The reversible errors claimed by Forman were listed as:

The court erred in decreeing the indictment be quashed.

The court erred in ruling the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution is invalid, and that the National Prohibition Act, enacted pursuant thereto, is, therefore, unconstitutional and void.

Before the conference adjourned Pearse accepted service of a citation directing Sprague and Howey to appear before the Supreme Court in Washington on January 17 to show cause why the decree of Judge Clark should not be corrected. The citation was signed by the judge.

"DECISION JUST"

It was explained January 17 was not to be regarded as the exact date of the Washington hearing, but according to law it may be held on any date from now until January 17.

Upon his own decision that has excited so much comment, Judge Clark said:

"I believe it is a just decision and that is the only comment I care to make."

Forman explained he did not expect to write the opinion that will accompany his appeal. It will be written by Solicitor General Thacher, and either Thacher or Assistant Attorney General G. A. Youngquist, in charge of prohibition cases, will argue the appeal before the Supreme Court.

New Attack Planned To Invalidate Dry Law

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—(Universal.)—A new all-around attack of the validity of the prohibition amendment, to exhaust the remaining possibilities of blasting it out of the constitution by causing the Supreme Court to reverse itself, appeared in the making today.

A succession of cases carrying forward his attack from different angles and on various grounds was anticipated by lawyers who have digested the decision of Judge William Clark, holding the amendment invalid. At least two such cases are in the courts, besides his.

Although anti-prohibitions will throw their fighting strength into the effort to sustain Clark's decision before the Supreme Court, and push on their modification and repeal moves, there is keen interest in an all-around test if the Clark decision is upset.

Pitt Dean Believes Law on Firm Base

The decision of Federal Judge William Clark, of New Jersey, invalidating the Eighteenth Amendment, was discussed today by Alexander R. Thompson, dean of the University of Pittsburgh law school, and professor of constitutional law. In commenting on the decision, Prof. Thompson said:

"I couldn't give a satisfactory comment on this question because I haven't read the full opinion of Judge Clark. It's my guess that, while this point hasn't been brought before the Supreme Court before, the Supreme Court would have substantial reason before they'd change an amendment so long in existence. They would probably argue that if it were not legal it would have been upset before this."

$4,600,000 Charity Fund to Be Divided

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—Distribution of a $4,600,000 fund over which Calvin Coolidge, Alfred Smith and Julius Rosenwald had control will begin at once, it was stated today.

The money was left by Conrad Hubert, inventor of the pocket flashlight, who died in 1928.

Dry Law Ruling 'New Deal With Old Cards'

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

And all the wets got was a new deal with the same old cards.

We'll eat the stick.

The best we can do is to take Judge Clark's Christmas gift back and exchange it for a couple of government raids.

New Jersey started something when it said the Eighteenth amendment has halted out of turn.

Many years ago somebody sneaked over a postscript saying the government of the people, from the people and toward the people was strictly a business of the people.

It mentioned the people three times. But didn't invite them to the party.

This is the famous Tenth Amendment to the charter of the public. We're an old chatter member.

All future amendments for the Constitution were to be voted upon by the proletariat. Otherwise they were null and frostbitten.

We don't say this is true. At this stage of our politics it is very difficult to separate the falsehoods from the more reliable perjury.

But, if it is true, then you can hand the Eighteenth Amendment over to the champion paper-tearer of the state and let him do his act.

It's a momentous decision. It's revolutionary. It scatters the industry and causes the hundred counterfeiters to pull in their astonished necks.

Judge Clark, of New Jersey, is the man who handed forth the epoch blasting document. It was all over a minor detail of 50 kegs of beer.

A Jersey farmer was taking those 50 kegs of beer to market.

Judge Clark can make himself popular by also striking in another sealed but on a question that has puzzled us for years.

Freed at Last from Stomach and Bowel Misery

"For years and years I suffered stomach and bowel trouble," says Mrs. Alice Tedeschi of Lawrence, Mass. "Sour, bitter ACIDINE regurgitations and those all too often attacks I had taken. I never found such relief. It seems wonderful to be free from stomach ache, gas..."

Almost everyone who takes ACIDINE (pleasant pills) tells Mother Dixie how much good it has done. Over two million packages have been sold. It's absolutely amazing the way this new prescription relieves when other known remedies fail.

ACIDINE is the only known remedy which contains Peptase, which in laboratory tests digests 300 times its weight of certain heavy, gassy foods which cause trouble. It neutralizes burning acids, soothes irritated stomach linings, stops gases, headaches, constipation and nervousness. No other known remedy combining this combination to aid acid stomach. ACIDINE also fortifies you against colds by reducing acidity.

ASSESSOR ASKS BUILDING FILE

McMahon appeared before Council to explain needs of his department under the 1931 budget estimate.

According to the chief assessor's proposal, each building would be cross-indexed by street and number. Prime purpose of the plan would be to assist in giving definite information during court litigation over assessment estimates.

The work would be done by members of McMahon's staff of assessors, but would require "the services of a research engineer to do technical tasks in determining cubic feet of each building and other necessary information. Five years would be consumed before every building—commercial and domestic—would be indexed, he pointed out.

FIGHT PLEDGED ON TAG FIXING

George M. Dowler, president, and a delegation from the Squirrel Hill Board of Trade, meeting with the traffic flow committee of the Better Traffic Committee in the Chamber of Commerce, signed an agreement for the board to do all possible to discourage tag-fixing in the Squirrel Hill district. H. B. Kirkpatrick, chairman of the flow committee, presided.

This action is regarded by the board as a measure for relief of traffic congestion and for bettering of business conditions generally.

The pledge arose from the charge of the city traffic engineer, Lewis W. McIntyre, that many traffic evils arise from business men requesting the "fixing" of tags for themselves and their customers, thus nullifying efforts of police to enforce traffic laws.

McIntyre scored the placing of the blame on politicians rather than upon the citizen for whom the tag is fixed.

LAW RESEARCH BUREAU URGED

A proposal to codify all city ordinances under a single group was made by City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt to Council at its meeting yesterday.

The ordinances, according to Waldschmidt, have not been codified since 1908, and will require several years' time to complete the task. A research bureau for the work will have to be created in the law department, he said. Total cost of the codification activities will be around $10,000, Waldschmidt told Council.

Estimated number of ordinances to be codified is around 100,000. Waldschmidt based his estimate on the fact that nearly 2,000 bills are passed by Council annually.

PLAN OIL PIPE LINES HERE

A terminal to include pipe lines to pump petroleum products from barges into tanks on the river bank is planned for a site near Dravosburg, on the Monongahela River, by the Gulf Refining Company, for which a permit is asked of the government.

A series of dolphins also will be driven for the purpose of tieing up the fleet, while it is proposed to dredge a harbor, when about 500 cubic yards of material will be removed.

Ohio Woman Freed In Bond Thefts

CADIZ, O., Dec. 19.—Mrs. Della Baker, 50, of Tippecanoe, was exonerated by a jury in Harrison County Common Pleas Court on a charge of stealing $11,000 in government bonds and cash belonging to George Sutton, a neighbor. The bonds disappeared from a coffee pot secreted by Sutton under his front porch. The bonds later were left on the porch, but $2,000 currency is still missing.

Governor Delays Slayer's Execution

HARRISBURG, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—A respite staying until the week of February 23, 1931, the execution of Wilfred Flood, has been issued by Gov. Fisher. Flood, known under aliases of Fred Wilkins and Fred Lipski, was convicted of first degree murder in connection with a gasoline filling station holdup at Kingston, Luzerne County, and was to have been electrocuted during the week of December 29, 1930.

Unemployed Aided By Organized Labor

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—Organized labor is caring for its own, Hugh Frayne, organizer for the American Federation of Labor, said in answering Industrial Trades Counsellors, Inc., which recently criticized the unions for "inefficiency" in meeting unemployment.

Frayne said that while organized labor was not responsible for present conditions, it was doing all it could to relieve suffering.

Cubans Vote Use Of Cassava Flour

HAVANA, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—The Cuban Senate passed a bill for stimulating consumption of home products, providing for the addition of 10 per cent cassava flour to all wheat flour used in the manufacture of Cuban bread. Cassava flour is made from the root of the yuca plant.

SHOWBOAT MAY OPEN TONIGHT

The showboat Gladstone may open tonight if Capt. J. W. Menke obtains Mayor Charles H. Kline's signature to a permit which Edward G. Lang, director of public works, made out yesterday, and if the boat passes an inspection of the Building Bureau, which was ordered today by Lang.

The boat is moored at the foot of Stanwix street. Menke was ready to open Wednesday night when informed he must get a public works permit. He got that yesterday—all but Mayor Kline's name—and was ready to put on the show last night, but again was held up until the Mayor signed on the dotted line.

Fire Badly Damages Famous N. Y. Theater

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—Firemen fought two hours early today to extinguish a fire in the American Music Hall at Forty-second street and Eighth avenue.

The theater, whose boards have been trod by some of America's most famous players, was badly damaged. The fire was believed to have started from a cigaret dropped in the balcony during a performance of the burlesque troupe which now occupies the old playhouse.

Conscience Uneasy, Pays After 16 Years

ROCKLAND, Me., Dec. 19.—(AP.)—After 16 years Alonzo Drake's conscience is clear. He could not find the purser in 1914 to pay him a dollar for a steamship trip from Belfast to Bangor. He has been troubled about it, so at last he has come in from Union and paid the steamship company.

TAX REVENUES UP IN COUNTY

The total general collection of county taxes for 1930, compiled today by John Francies, county treasurer, reached $15,260,300, an increase of $1,406,802 over the collections of 1929.

In setting the levy for 1931, which is the same as the 1930 total, the pro-rate arrived at was 8½ mills in the city and 9½ outside the city—or no change in the total millage.

The bond interest tax, in the setting of millage by the County Commissioners, was increased from from 3½ mills to 4¼ mills for 1930. A further increase for 1931, increasing this millage to 4⅝ was made several days ago. This increase was taken care of by reducing the general county tax from 2¼ mills to 2 mills. The road tax was reduced from 1½ to 1⅜ mills, thus equalizing them.

MOORE ESTATE FIGHTS VERDICT

Motion to set aside a $65,000 verdict awarded to Samuel S. Shapiro in the sale of the Pittsburgh Leader some years ago was made today by John S. Weller, attorney for the estate of A. P. Moore, Pittsburgh publisher and foreign diplomat.

The case was tried during Moore's lifetime. Weller said Moore testified he never promised Shapiro any commission and asks that the award be set aside despite the verdict.

Judges H. H. Rowand, James H. Gray and Sylvester Snee, sitting en banc, heard the motion and will render an opinion later.

MONEY BLAMED FOR REVOLT IN SPAIN

Instigators Supplied With Huge Sum From Unknown Source, Says Duke of Alba

The following article, on the cause, missing and probable results of the recent Spanish disorders, is an authoritative explanation of the situation in Spain today. It is published as told by the Duke of Alba, Spanish foreign minister, to Reginald A. Calvert, Universal Service staff correspondent.

The Duke of Alba is equipped to speak with authority, having held high governmental posts in Spain since before the dictatorship of the late Primo De Rivera.

By THE DUKE OF ALBA.
Spanish Minister for Foreign Affairs.
Universal Service Special Cable.

MADRID, Dec. 19.—These revolutions of ours are very tiresome. Personally, I cannot take them very seriously. A few shots and the affair is over.

Money is behind the present trouble, but where this money comes from is a mystery we are unable to solve. One student imprisoned after the Jaca affair had no less than 2,000,000 pesetas (normally $500,000), while the ordinarily penniless Cr.t. Calan, commander at Jaca, had about $40,000. Where they got that money, we don't know.

Communism in Spain is only a momentary expression of unrest. There was really an outbreak due—and expected by the government—as long ago as last March, but that was too early. Then the summer was too hot, and nothing happened until cold December brought fever heat.

DOUBTS REPUBLICANISM

I do not believe Spain is really Republican at heart. The great mass of people are interested only in agriculture, and the farmers are uninterested in politics.

We are helping the Andalusian peasants through the trying time occasioned by a bad olive crop. We have sent millions of pesetas out for them to build roads.

Parcelling out of land to make the small farmer a land-owner has not proved successful. My grandfather gave away his property for cultivation to the peasants. The project failed and the peasants became entangled with money-lenders. Consequently, I recently had to buy back the land.

PEASANT IDEA OF BLISS

Give the peasant a guitar and bread, oil and 40 centimos a day and then he will be happier than either you or I.

You must not take political events in Spanish cities too seriously. This is a country of strange contrasts, and what appears to outsiders as unexpected is dismissed with a shrug of the shoulders in Spain.

We have brought the Foreign Legionnaires from Morocco only in case they are needed, and for the theatrical effect. They are a fine body of men.

The army is still loyal, as the world has observed.

So, we will carry on until election time next year, when Spain once again will have a parliament and a constitutional government.

U. S. HEIRESS WEDS PRINCE

CHANTILLY, France, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—A brilliant society event here was the marriage of Mlle. Genevieve de Neuflize, great granddaughter of the late Pierre Lorillard, of New York, to Prince Costa de Beauregard, descendant of an old French family.

After a honeymoon on Minorca Island, one of the Balearic group, the couple will proceed to the Chateau de Beauregard, near Evian-Les-Bains, on the French shore of Lake Geneva. The chateau, in accordance with traditions in the Beauregard family, is inherited by the bridegroom on the day of his wedding.

BID FAREWELL TO TOURISTS

More than 200 relatives and friends were at the Pennsylvania Station last night to say goodbe to the five Pittsburgh girls who are on their way to balmy Bermuda as guests of the Sun-Telegraph.

They left at 9:30 o'clock on the Iron City Express and will sail from New York for Bermuda this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, on the Munson Line steamship, Pan America, on which they have de luxe cabin accommodations. The winners in the party are Sarah Jane Shapiro, Agnes Rita Carroll, Marion Evans, Jean Eisenberg and Jean De Blasio.

These girls won the trip in the Paris-Bermuda contest recently conducted by the Sun-Telegraph. They will arrive at Bermuda Sunday morning, and will remain on the islands until December 29, when they embark on the same steamship for New York and then by train for home. All their expenses are paid by the Sun-Telegraph and they have each been given a liberal amount of extra money to spend.

WARNING GIVEN ON SEAL SALE

A warning to Pittsburghers not to purchase Christmas Health seals from door to door salesmen was given today by the Tuberculosis League. The league does not authorize sale of seals in this manner in the city, but this restriction does not apply to county districts outside the city, the league explained, as each county district has its own method of sale.

The Squirrel Hill Community Club is giving a Christmas party of adult patients at the league hospital tomorrow night. The party, an annual feature for more than five years, will be held in the auditorium of the hospital. There will be vocal and instrumental numbers.

The eighth annual entertainment given by children of the Industrial Home for Crippled Children for their friends, will be presented tonight in Carnegie Music Hall. Miss Frances E. Shirley is directing the play, "The Toy Shop," a tale of Christmas.

Fifty of the 75 children in the school will take part. Boys of the school printed the programs and the girls helped with the costumes.

Miss Nydes arrived at Havre aboard the liner Ile de France and came on to Paris on the regular boat-train. She will remain here two weeks, sightseeing with the other American girls from various cities in the United States who were chosen by popular vote in their home towns.

JOHNSON TO HIT COURT ON AIR

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—(Universal.)—Why the United States should remain out of the League of Nations court will be explained by Senator Hiram Johnson (Rep.), of California, in a radio address over the Columbia Broadcasting System tomorrow night.

Johnson will reply at length to Senator Capper (Rep.), of Kansas, who urged American adherence in an address over the same network last Saturday.

Senator Johnson was one of the small but courageous Senate group which stood out from the start against ratification of the League of Nations a decade ago. Later their judgment was approved by a majority of over 7,000,000 votes in the 1920 elections.

In his radio talk, Senator Johnson will advise against meddling in European affairs by joining the League Court when so many pressing domestic problems are waiting to be solved.

STEEG CABINET WINS SUPPORT

PARIS, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—Theodore Steeg's leftist ministry had a grant of power from the Chamber of Deputies today, but it was given grudgingly with a margin of only seven votes, and the opposition declared that as soon as the holidays were over it would turn the government out of office.

The vote of confidence, succeeding the reading of the ministrial declaration, passed 291 to 284, the Socialists voting for the ministry after a party caucus.

Finland Plans Dry Repeal Referendum

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—The Exchange Telegraph said it was understood in authoritative circles that the government plans to introduce in the Diet next spring a proposal for a national referendum on the abolition of prohibition.

Constitutional law in Finland does not recognize referenda and special legislation will be necessary to legalize any such measure.

Last week the Finnish Diet passed a bill increasing the percentage weight of alcohol in beer from 1.8 to 2.25. The government had proposed an increase to 2.4 per cent. The bill was regarded as the first serious step toward modification of Finnish prohibition.

SUSPECT HELD AS GIRL KILLER

MARYVILLE, Mo., Dec. 19.—(AP.)—Declared by county authorities to have confessed slaying 19-year-old Velma Colter, rural school teacher, Raymond Gunn, 30, Negro, ex-convict, was held at St. Joseph, Mo., today where he was rushed to avoid possible mob violence.

The Negro was arrested yesterday while hunting. After hours of questioning the suspect, County Attorney Paul R. Jones announced Gunn had confessed. He was spirited away immediately.

The prosecutor said Gunn related how he had met the young teacher at the door of her school room and followed her within where she fled screaming. Jones quoted the ex-convict as saying Miss Colter fought viciously as he attempted to seize her.

Gunn then rushed at her with a club and beat her about the head, the prosecutor said. Teeth marks were visible on the Negro's hand where he was arrested.

CAUCUS HERE TO INDORSE SPEAKER

SIDEWALKS of PITTSBURGH
By William Pfarr

Our old friend Joe Hiller will do his bit to enliven the entertainment of New Year's Eve by assessing the customers $25 a couple at his Showboat. And in the name of the people of this glorious city (Pittsburgh) we want to thank Joe.

No superficial showman is Joe. He knows that most of us, having profited in the bull market of the last 14 months, have been sitting around with $25 on our hands, yearning for a place to put it. Joe proposes to supply the place. Joe is our favorite

William Pfarr cabaret entrepreneur. (Whoopsie, what a name to call Joe), and we were confident that he would come through in this pinch. He has come through gloriously. For your $25 he will also give you a couple of meals (including breakfast) and all the ginger ale you can spill. It'll be just like home, with all that food around.

While we're distributing the thanks of the people, let us bow

... has taken over the Plaza. We dare not call him Entrepreneur Eddie because he is taxing the customers $20 a couple and tossing in the usual tosses. If he were charging $25 we would be glad to call him Entrepreneur Eddie, but until he sees the error of his ways it will have to be plain Eddie.

Happy New Year.

The Book Publishers Research Institute has asked us, and a million others, to coin a word which will describe the person who habitually borrows books from friends. We can't do it in one word, but we have made up an excellent definition in three words: habitual book borrower.

Charlie Faulkner, the police inspector, is an excellent person to avoid these unsafe days. The good inspector is tearing his hair at the suggestion that his police aren't able to cope with the bandits who seem to be enjoying the key to the North Side. So determined is he that he keeps a sawed-off shotgun in his auto, certainly for the bandits and possibly for the critics.

Our one regret, now that the holiday season is with us, is that we don't have friends in Denmark. One of the telegraph companies (either the Postal or Western Union, or both) is offering cablegrams of holidays greeting to Denmark for $1. The company does the translating, not that it's necessary.

Mike McDermott, the county detective, went over to Cleveland recently to bring a prisoner back to Allegheny County.

In Cleveland, Mike handcuffed himself to the prisoner. They went to a restaurant. The prisoner, his hands hidden beneath the table, asked the waitress to butter his bread, explaining that he was handcuffed.

"Wa'judo thatchafta be handcuffed?" the waitress asked.

"Well," retorted the lady as she strolled away, "if you can kill a coupla guys y'oughta be able to butter your own bread."

OXYGEN PROVES FUTILE FOR AGED MAN

Sons Work All Night to Save Father, 69, Ill With Pneumonia; 3 Tanks Used

Phillip Buch, 69, died today in his home at 2147 Holyoke street of pneumonia, after efforts to save him by administering oxygen failed because of his advanced age. He was a veteran employe of the Pittsburgh Railways Company and was the first to be pensioned by the company.

Born in France in 1861, he came here in 1871. Mr. Buch had been employed in the maintenance department of the railways company for almost 40 years and placed the first electric trolley on the North Side in operation.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Margaret F. Gray Buch, he leaves three sons, Harry O. Buch, wagonman at North Side Police Station; Philip P. Buch, and William J. Buch, assistant superintendent of the bureau of tunnels; three daughters, Viora M. Buch, Mrs. Sadie D. Miller, and Mrs. Emily B. Marshall; 12 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

He had been ill for four weeks. Pneumonia developed Wednesday, and last night his sons, Harry and William, strove to help him with an inhalator, but after three tanks of oxygen were used, physicians said the efforts were futile because of his age.

TROLLEY KILLS TRAPPED MAN

A man believed to be Ernest Williams, 45, of 823 Sandusky street, North Side, was killed when he was struck by a street car on the Buttermilk Hollow Bridge of the Pittsburgh Railways Company in Mifflin Township, last night, the coroner's office reported.

The victim was said to have been walking across the bridge when he fell between the ties and was unable to free himself. The car was in charge of Motorman W. A. Russell and Conductor W. R. Rogers, who were ordered to appear at the coroner's office today.

AUTO HURTS PUT 3 IN HOSPITALS; DRIVER HELD

Boy Run Down, Motorist Accused of Recklessness; Sideswiping Causes Crash

Three persons were in hospitals today as a result of automobile accidents in the Pittsburgh district early today and last night.

Struck by an auto near his home, Walter Peters, 7, of 159 Wabash avenue, was in Allegheny General Hospital suffering from a leg fracture and body bruises. E. L. Emerick, 25, of Cecil, Pa., alleged driver, was arrested on a reckless driving charge.

Wallace M. Corl, 38, of Cleveland, was in McKeesport Hospital suffering a probable shoulder fracture. Corl's car was sideswiped by another machine in Liberty Borough road, crashed against a pole and was balanced on the edge of a 50-foot embankment when it stopped, he told hospital attaches. Corl is a son of J. W. Corl, of 532 Locust street, McKeesport, it was said at the hospital.

Donald Pettigrew, 18, of Tarentum R. D. 3, was in Allegheny Valley Hospital at Tarentum suffering body bruises received when struck by a car in the Freeport road, Glassmere. B. J. Nayman, of Brackenridge, was said to have been driving the automobile.

PRINTERS VOTE FUND FOR IDLE

Unemployed printers in Pittsburgh will be aided until they find work as a result of a vote by members of Typographical Union No. 7 yesterday, providing for an assessment of 2 per cent of their earnings to provide a fund for the purpose. The assessment will continue as long as needed.

Under its provisions, married members who are unemployed will receive $25 weekly and single men $15. The measure will go into effect next week, H. L. Woodmansee, president, and W. B. Clark, secretary, said.

Hoover to Speak In 40 Places --By Radio

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—President Hoover has solved the problem of how to be in 40 different places at one time without going anywhere.

He had received 40 invitations to deliver Lincoln Day speeches in as many places.

He will use the radio and make the speech from the Lincoln study of the White House on the night of February 12. It was there that President Lincoln signed the Emancipation Proclamation and where he held his cabinet meetings.

HOTEL GUEST ILL, KIN SOUGHT

Found unconscious yesterday in her room in the Fort Pitt Hotel, where she had registered Tuesday, Mrs. S. L. Norton, 33, of New York, today was still in a state of coma in the Homeopathic Hospital.

The nature of her illness could not be determined by physicians, according to homicide detectives who investigated. A maid who entered to make up the room found Mrs. Norton unconscious. Her purse contained only 25 cents. No drugs or poisons were found in the room, detectives said.

Bankrupt Fugitive Arrested on Coast

Cameron A. Miller, building contractor of Wilkinsburg, indicted last spring on a charge of concealing assets from a trustee in bankruptcy, is under arrest in San Francisco, the United States attorney's office announced today. Miller was said to have waived removal proceedings.

Miller, the indictment charged, after going into bankruptcy in 1927, concealed assets of $30,000 and property in Butler County.

NEED 2 TRAFFIC COURTS HERE, SAYS HERRON

President of City Council Urges Second Tribunal To Save Motorists' Time

If President John S. Herron, of City Council, had his way about it, Pittsburgh would have at least two traffic courts for the convenience of those who have run afoul of the motor laws.

He made this known yesterday while discussing appropriations for the maintenance of the East End Traffic Court for 1931.

He said:

"It is a decided inconvenience for motorists living on the North and South Sides and adjacent territories to lose three to four hours making a trip to Traffic Court. There should be another, centrally located, for the convenience of these persons."

The State Legislature has the power to fix the quota of municipal courts, Herron said, and at the present time Pittsburgh's quota is filled.

POISON FUMES KILL ROOMER

One man was dead from carbon monoxide poisoning today and another was in a serious condition in Mercy Hospital. They were found in a rooming house at 1723 Boulevard of the Allies, last night, according to the coroner's report.

The dead man was James Shea, 70, a roomer. Another roomer, Michael Fitzgerald, 66, overcome by the fumes, was taken to the hospital by Center avenue police. Fitzgerald was visiting Shea when both were affected by the fumes, deputy coroners said.

The men were found by another roomer, who broke in the door when it was discovered that Fitzgerald was not in his room and the one occupied by Shea was locked.

WHO LOST TWO PIGS?

MRS. M. J. BURDETTE AND THE TWO PIGS SHE FOUND

The two young pigs that called at the Burdette farm, West Park, and just made themselves at home. They're mysteries because no one can locate their owner in the surrounding countryside.

FREED IN DUCK KILLING TRIAL

Jack Dzamek, 35, of Cook's Hill, Bridgeville, tried in Criminal Court on a charge of cruelty to animals, was freed by a jury late yesterday. Mrs. P. Rozankovich, of Union street, Bridgeville, testified he shot four of her tame ducks. Dzamek told the jury he had been hunting along Chartiers Creek, and had shot a blackbird. He denied killing the ducks.

WOMAN ADOPTS STRAY PIGS

There have been stray dogs and cats, but Mrs. M. J. Burdette, of West Park, Stowe Township, has the strangest orphans. While she was working in the kitchen of her home, Mrs. Burdette heard strange disturbances in the vicinity of the barn. The dogs barked and the chickens cackled. Mrs. Burdette went out and found two little pigs in the barnyard.

The pigs resented the appearance of the woman and would have nothing to do with her overtures. Mrs. Burdette called her two sons and they got the visitors something to eat. Food calmed them and Mrs. Burdette soon had them locked in the barn.

Neighbors heard of the stray pigs and sought the owners, but to no avail. Mrs. Burdette has advertised for the owners, but no one has claimed them.

So, two pigs have been added to the collection of chickens, dogs and rabbits at the Burdette home.

LEGISLATORS TO MEET JAN. 3

Final 'Dress Rehearsal' for Opening; Will Select Slate Men, Lay Law Plans

A caucus of the Allegheny County delegation of Representatives to the Legislature has been called for January 3, two weeks from tonight, by Republican County Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong.

In announcing the caucus Armstrong said yesterday the date may be changed if unforseen conditions arise.

The purpose of the caucus of the representatives, to which the six State Senators are invited, is to indorse a candidate for speaker of the House of Representatives, elect a chairman of the Allegheny County delegation, and select one man from each Congressional district in the county for the slate committee.

The chairman of the delegation, either a senator or representative, is charged with the calling of meetings for discussion of legislation. The slate committee has the naming of committee and filing clerks and the sergeant-at-arms.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 19.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Well, the World Court blew up till next December anyhow. Papers are calling it a defeat for Mr. Hoover. Say, I bet you he is tickled to death. It's one of those things he was under obligations to propose, and to get off his hands this easy, why, he is just laughing up his sleeve for the first time in months.

Will Rogers

If there is one thing that it would be laughable for this country to try to show the rest of world how to do, it would be to run a court. Of all the cock-eyed things we have in this country at the present time, it's some of our judges, and courts, and justice. We have more bandits out on bond than we have people for 'em to rob.

Yours,
WILL.

Beauty Shop Owner Files Answer to Wife's Suit

Emery Hajas, beauty parlor proprietor, whose wife, Margaret Hajas, has sued him for divorce, filed answer to her bill of particulars, averring Mrs. Hajas moved out the household furniture without his knowledge, even to removing his bed.

Mrs. Hajas, who lives in Superior street, Duquesne, claims her husband has an income of $12,000 a year and on those allegations the court ordered Hajas to pay her $30 a week, pending termination of the divorce action.

Hajas denied in his answer that he kicked his wife on the foot or talked rough to her, but has always been a loving and dutiful husband. Hajas, who lives in a downtown hotel, also has brought a cross liber against Mrs. Hajas, charging her with desertion.

3 South Side Boys Scared, Cold After Stolen Ride

Half frozen and frightened, three South Side boys, aged 8, 10 and 11, respectively, hung to the tire carrier of a large bus for a long and dangerous ride from Pittsburgh to East Liverpool, O., last night. The youths are being held by East Liverpool police pending the arrival of their parents.

The boys were taken from the bus at East Liverpool by a policeman who noticed them hanging to the tire cover. They were taken to the police station and given hot coffee and their parents were notified. They told police they had held fast throughout their ride, too frightened to leave the bus when it slowed down.

PITTSBURGH WOMAN DECORATED BY KING OF NORWAY

MRS. RUUD GETS MUSIC FUND TRIBUTE

Wife of Inventor Receives Medal; First Woman So Honored in United States

In the Ruud home in South Graham street today there's a bright new medal—the King of Norway's recognition of Mrs. Minna Kaufmann Ruud. It arrived yesterday, having been dispatched from the king through the Department of State, and is Norway's tribute to Mrs. Ruud's work in establishing and sponsoring the Ruud Fund, used to discover and develop latent talent in the young singers of Norway.

A year ago Edwin Ruud, inventor and contributor to science, was given the commander's medal, highest decoration of the Norwegian ruler. He had previously received a medal of lesser merit for his scientific work and aid in Europe and this country.

But Mrs. Ruud is the first woman in the United States to be decorated with this medal. She said:

"Of course I was exceedingly pleased to be so honored. The fund seeking, perhaps, another Jenny Lind, is actually searching everywhere in Norway and Sweden for young talent. We send and develop them in Berlin, which is the center of music in Europe. Two made their debut during the past year."

Mr. Ruud invented the water heater bearing his name, and is a native of Norway.

HOTEL GUESTS VIEW BLAZE

Guests in the Roosevelt Hotel early today watched downtown firemen battle a blaze in a two-story building at 144 Sixth street, opposite the hotel, and occupied by the Edwards Clothing Store. Battalion Chief George Spaar estimated damage at $3,000.

Smoke which enveloped the building forced firemen to wear gas masks. The flames originated in the rear and spread to the second floor, occupied by dental offices. Streams of water were directed from Sixth street, a private alley and nearby buildings.

Damage of $50 resulted from a fire which started in the basement of the Club Aluminum Company, 5939 Broad street, shortly after midnight. Smoke filled nearby buildings.

The two-story brick home of Joseph Rostak, 281 Claremore street, Carrick, was destroyed by fire, said to have been caused by defective gas pipes in the basement, late yesterday. The damage was estimated at $5,000. No one was in the house at the time.

CAR FIRM ASKS TO SCRAP LINE

The Pittsburgh Railways Company has asked the Public Service Commission for permission to abandon one of its two tracks in Water street between Wood and Smithfield streets. The track has not been used for some years since the street was made a one-way thoroughfare. The city is soon expected to make repairs on the street and the company wishes to be spared the expense of shifting the track.

The railways company also asked permission to vacate, temporarily, one of two tracks on Shore and Allegheny avenues between the Manchester boulevard and Reedsdale street.

PARKS OPENED TO SKATERS

More than 150 skaters took advantage of the opening of ice skating season in South Park yesterday, according to Paul B. Riis, director of county parks. The frozen pool was illuminated, and bonfires on both ends of the pool kept the skaters warm. County policemen guarded the 100 automobiles owned by the skaters. Skating will be continued indefinitely, weather permitting, Director Riis stated.

Hundreds also took advantage of the city park pools. Skating was good at the ball field in Olympia Park, Duquesne Heights, and Riverview Park, North Side. According to James Moore, superintendent of the Bureau of City Parks, Lake Elizabeth in West Park, North Side, will be opened today.

The pools in Schenley and Highland parks only have a coating of 3½ inches of ice, and until the tests show 4 inches the public will not be permitted to use them, Supt. Moore said.

Seek Stabilization To Prevent Pay Cuts

Efforts to stabilize their industry without reducing payrolls were being made today by a group of leaders of the Label Manufacturers National Association in the William Penn Hotel. The meeting results will be conveyed to the national headquarters and submitted to members.

With that thought in mind yesterday he made a motion before Council to ask the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board whether any of its members used the survey's facilities. A recommendation was also made to ask Public Works Director Edward G. Lang whether the facilities could be used by the City Department of Surveys.

The matter was brought up during a session of the budget committee, determining the fate of a $25,000 appropriation for topographical survey activities for 1926.

CHIEF JUSTICE FRAZER PAID TRIBUTES AT BAR BANQUET

JURISTS JOIN LAWYERS IN TESTIMONIAL

Event Marks Elevation To High Court Position; Speakers Laud Record

Chief Justice Robert S. Frazer, of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, was designated last night as a "maker of landmarks on the roadway of Pennsylvania jurisprudence" at a testimonial banquet at the Pittsburgh Field Club.

The testimonial by members of the Allegheny County Bar, attended by 36 leading jurists and many prominent attorneys from several counties, was in celebration of Justice Frazer's recent elevation to chief justiceship.

Justice Frazer is the second Pittsburgher to be elevated to the chief justiceship, his predecessor being James P. Sterrett, who died about 30 years ago.

LAUDED BY COLLEAGUE

Justice John W. Kephart, of Ebensburg, a member of the State Supreme Court, in speaking for that body, paid tribute to the honor guest for his manner on the bench, his learning in the law, his aid in consultation and for his kindness and consideration. He stressed that the justices of his court feel that in honoring Justice Frazer, they also honored them.

Other speakers included Judge James R. Macfarlane, presiding judge of the Allegheny County court; Harold M. Irons, former assistant city solicitor; Oliver K. Eaton, chairman of the banquet committee; Attorney William D. Evans and Edwin W. Smith, toastmaster.

TRIBUTE TO RECORD

All speakers paid high tribute to Judge Frazer's ability, and his record of 34 years on the bench, 18 of which were served in the Common Pleas Court of Allegheny County and 16 years on the Supreme Court bench.

Justice Frazer was visibly affected when Attorney Evans, on behalf of the guests, presented him with a gold watch, suitably inscribed. It was then that the Chief Justice, in an address which he had prepared, spoke in glowing terms of the legal profession of the state and of his home county and Western Pennsylvania. Justice Frazer is 80, but looks many years younger.

SERVICE CLUBS PLAY 'SANTA'

Annual Christmas treats for poor children of the city were happy memories today for 150 youngsters who were guests of two downtown business men's clubs yesterday at the Fort Pitt Hotel.

Members of the Kiwanis Club and the Lions Club of Pittsburgh were the hosts at the two parties. The Kiwanians entertained 50 children gathered by the Salvation Army and a like number from the Volunteers of America. The Lions entertained 50 boys and girls living in the district between Bigelow boulevard and Liberty avenue at Thirty-third street.

Both parties featured a luncheon and entertainment with gift bags of clothing, toys, fruit and candy for each guest. Tom Venable was general chairman of the Kiwanian party, while William Jacob served in that capacity on the Lions committee. Steve Forrest contributed a vaudeville bill for the Kiwanians.

Boy Kills Playmate With 'Unloaded Gun'

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—A pistol that "wasn't loaded" killed 10-year-old James Barnes as he was going home from school. He was shot through the head by Andrew Hascher, a playmate, as they toyed with the weapon on a vacant lot. Hascher told police he had been playing with the pistol several days and "thought it wasn't loaded." He was sent to the House of Detention to await the action of the coroner.

Greensburg Doctor Accidentally Slain

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 19.—(AP.)—Accidental discharge of a high-powered rifle which he was returning to the owner brought death to Dr. Ross R. Feichtner, 45, prominent Greensburg dentist and at one time a University of Pittsburgh football player.

He had driven to the home of J. T. Hayden, who loaned Dr. Feichtner the gun to hunt deer, and was walking across the street after alighting from the automobile when the rifle was fired.

Former Wife Sues Estate of Actor

BARES EFFORTS OF POLITICIANS FOR GUNMAN

Prosecutor Tells Court of Attempts to Secure 'Soft' Term for Convicted Man

Declaring in open court that he had been approached by small politicians to recommend a "soft" sentence for a convicted robber and gunman, Assistant District Attorney Earl Jackson said he had not only refused, but if it became possible, he would ask for a life sentence under the four crimes act.

James Laxton, 24, of Jackson street, North Side, convicted the day before of three holdups at the point of a gun, after he had pleaded guilty to attempting to rob Precinct Detective John Rhall, who had shot him, was called for sentence late yesterday before Visiting Judge O. Clair Kent, of Crawford County. His attorney asked for delay until he decided whether he would move for a new trial.

Judge Kent said he would give Laxton's attorneys until this afternoon, and if they do not move for a new trial by then, will impose sentence.

Dr. Shilen, according to Dr. Mait's story told Council, is now living in a "highly inadequate" apartment on the tuberculosis farm.

Outlook Alliance Holds Colorful Christmas Luncheon, Pageant

Rarely is there a more beautiful club affair than the Christmas luncheon and pageant held yesterday in the Congress clubhouse by the Outlook Alliance. Covers were laid for 140 at the luncheon, for which the striking decorations were in black and silver. Unusual little place favors, tiny glasses of jelly made by the president, Mrs. H. D. Stark, and done up in Christmas wrappings, added their decorative note.

"The Pageant of the Holy Grail," which followed, was witnessed by a larger number of guests, among them 22 children from the Curtis Home.

Colorful and spectacular in its setting and costuming, the pageant served to introduce to the membership the Outlook Alliance Players and the club choral. Mrs. H. Kloman Schmidt was the narrator; Mrs. Eleanor Grier made a fine King Arthur; Mrs. E. B. Heyser, a beautiful Lancelot, and Mrs. Marion Foster Smith, Sir Galahad. Others in the cast were Mrs. W. Z. Burns, who was a page; Mrs. A. L. Dally, Mrs. Roy Shipley, Mrs. Donald Moore and Mrs. H. A. Dell, the knights; Mrs. F. C. Iffert, Mrs. F. O. Leopold and Mrs. Willard Alter, the wise men; Mrs. H. M. Hoffman and Mrs. F. A. Kind, shepherds; Mrs. A. J. Jaegle and Mrs. Fred Waldorf, angels; Mrs. J. M. Edwards, Mrs. Wilson, H. Martin, Mrs. H. M. Derhammer and Mrs. William Emery, damsels; Mrs. Perrin Peoples, Joseph; while Mrs. A. H. McCreery was the lovely Madonna.

Mrs. Mary Rhodes McBride directed the choral and sang a solo and Mrs. Martin Leiseder was accompanist.

There was nothing lacking either in appearance or jolly personality in the Santa Claus which Mrs. Florence Stewart Blackmore impersonated for the delight of the little guests.

Mrs. Adolph Hofmann was in charge of the program presented at the fifteenth anniversary of the Pittsburgh Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, which took place in the Hotel Schenley. A report of the national convention of the daughters was given by the regent, Mrs. John Pryor Cowan.

A holiday program has been planned by the play-reading group of the Pittsburgh Drama League and will be given two evenings, Friday and Saturday, in the living room of Mrs. Sarah C. Pettit's home, which she has fitted into a miniature theater by the ingenious use of curtains and footlights. Miss Janet Waldorf, who delighted the group with the Thanksgiving program, will again be heard, this time in a shortened version of "As You Like It." As an added attraction Ray E. Hurd will read an original play. The hostess requests that those expecting to attend send her word at least 24 hours before the meeting as seating space is limited.

Holiday Program

* * *

The Congress clubhouse is gay in its Yuletide dress of green and red and silver, a little less elaborate than in former years, but still artistic and effective. The hallway arch is outlined with arbor vitae and from its center hangs a many-pointed and lighted red star. Wreaths are in the windows and two little fir trees stand sentinel at the steps. The dining room is especially attractive with a tall red taper tied with silver leaves on each table and on the sideboard is an arrangement of silver leaves and red berries.

Across the hall the lounge has a new note in a huge wall mirror which Mrs. Walter R. Fleming has presented to the club in honor of Mrs. Milton P. Reno, who has served the club as financial secretary through several administrations.

A decorated tree stands in its place of honor in the auditorium, where scarlet leaves on the pillars and bankings of holly on the mantels complete the decorative scheme.

A vastly entertaining as well as interesting lecture-recital was given yesterday by Mrs. A. L. Koch before the Epoch Club members and their guests. Illustrating with piano excerpts, Mrs. Koch told the story of and discussed "Das Rhinegold," the prologue to Wagner's Nibelung Ring. The meeting, one of the few the club holds in the afternoons during its season, was in the home of Mrs. Jens O. L. Schreuder, West Hutchison avenue, Edgewood.

DUKEDOM DUE FOR PRINCE

LONDON, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—The Daily Express says it is expected in official quarters that Prince George, fourth son of the British monarch, will be created a duke on his twenty-eighth birthday anniversary tomorrow.

The paper adds there is a general desire in Scotland that the title of Duke of Edinburgh be revived, with suggestions this may be chosen for the young prince. The last holder of the title was Prince Alfred, son of Queen Victoria and uncle of the present king.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 19.—(AP.)—Two Esthonian brothers, Ahto and Keo Walter, have arrived here in their 26-foot sailboat after a 5,000-mile voyage from Tallinn, Esthonia. The boys said they left Tallinn, Esthonia, November 3.

Keo, the older, will return home. Ahto plans to take the sailboat through the Panama Canal to Australia, thence to South America and across the South Atlantic Ocean to their home.

ERIE, OHIO LINK NEED URGED

Members of the Shippers' Council of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce yesterday urged the Board of United States Army Engineers to expedite the federal authorization of Route No. 1 of the Lake Erie and Ohio River Canal, declaring that it is an imperative and immediate need today for shippers of produce to Lake Erie.

Charles Donley, chairman of the council, which is composed of representatives of the tonnage producing concerns in this district, stated that no other route would serve as effectively and economically as the proposed Route No. 1, which could handle the immense tonnage from Pittsburgh to Youngstown.

The proposed canal was discussed yesterday by T. C. Foley, acting general manager of the chamber, before the Propellor Club at a meeting in the Duquesne Club. A. J. P. Vandermyn, president of the club, presided. A brief analyzing the merits of the canal and the tonnage likely to be sent over the proposed waterway is being prepared by Donald O. Moore, traffic manager of the chamber. It will be sent to officials of the Rivers and Harbors Congress at Washington next week.

BISHOP BOYLE K. OF C. GUEST

Bishop Hugh C. Boyle, of the Catholic Diocese of Pittsburgh, was the guest of honor and a speaker at a dinner given last night by the Fort Pitt Assembly, Knights of Columbus, in the Duquesne Council club house, Fifth avenue. Former Councilman James F. Malone presided.

Other speakers were the Rev. Jerome D. Hannan, chaplain of the assembly, and the Rev. H. H. Carroll, assistant pastor of Sacred Heart Church.

THE SHORT WRAP PREPARES FOR ANOTHER GALA WINTER

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Dec. 19.—The short wrap blooms to new beauty beneath the caressing warmth of southern skies. And so we find several houses successfully selling wraps short for the coming resort season. Somehow the long wrap, unless the night be unduly chilly, seems a trifle too much and the dashing gaiety of the short wrap suggests so easily the carefree insouciant existence of the winter paradise that rises phoenix-like from its last season's ashes each year. The graceful, short jacket that dispenses with not an iota of chic or charm because of its attenuated inches will be prominent at all Riviera resorts this winter, it would seem, judging by the prominence accorded it in nearly every new collection shown for southbound clients. The wraps are distinguished by lovely colorings and dignified details.

* * *

POIRET IS SHOWING a splendid collection of clothes designed and destined for southern wear and from it we have had illustrated one of his new short evening coats. The model here shown is of old-rose velvet. It is fitted at the waistline and flares in a peplum-like frill at the hips. The sleeves are rather wide and are shirred along the inside seam to give a puffed effect. The frock under the coat is of white satin with several scattered motifs in large eyelet embroidery.

* * *

THE HOUSE OF BRUYERE has been most successful this season, showing clothes that are highy original as well as most picturesque. The model sketched for this page is typical of the output of this estab lishment. The intricate strapping seen in back passes over the shoulders and meets in double points at the front of the decolletage. The pointed idea is further carried out in the piecings at the front and sides of the bodice and skirt as well as in back. Two separate panels, shirred at the top, are to be found to the back of the skirt.

That Ted K. Jewett, NBC announcer, speaks Japanese fluently? He was born of American parents in Yokohama, Japan, in 1904.

That the "Radio Rascals" at KQV are all children aged 10 to 13? They're doing a special show this week at the Penn.

That Paul Small, tenor soloist with Jesse Crawford over WJAS Sunday nights, once was in vaudeville partnership with Little Jack Little of WLW? Little has signed an NBC contract and soon will be heard over the network.

That Horace Heidt, director of the orchestra heard over WCAE from the New Yorker, has played engagements in Paris, London and Monte Carlo?

That Jolly Bill Steinke of "Jolly Bill and Jane," was a cartoonist on New York papers for years? He is also an excellent cook, with New England boiled dinner his specialty.

That the ten 50,000-watt stations now in use serve a total population of 86,000,000?

The LOUDSPEAKER

—By LOUIS REID—

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—It is hard to understand the reluctance of the broadcasters to humanize Washington on the radio.

The clearings of Congressional throats, the hems and haws upon this hill and that low, dusty and droning governmental reports are given regularly to the ear-rappers. But not one word escapes of the sidelights of the Washington scene.

* * *

It is, as the academicians say, just too bad. The nation's armchairs would like to know more of the human, intimate side of life in the Capital. They would like to know over the radio what Hoover has substituted for Cal's buckwheat cakes, if Borah still indulges in horseback meditation where Mr. Gann sits at official dinners, what James Longworth plays upon his fiddle, what Senator Jones does for amusement and if the cellar stocks in the embassies have been suitably replenished for the Yuletide.

Armchairs Want Gossip of Washington

The Niagara of words that pours from the loudspeakers will not take on their fullest force and glory until the radio chiefs train their guns on Washington, until they bring to the overstuffed divans the rich, colorful, unusual gossip that blows like a gale across the Potomac.

* * *

Edwin Franko Goldmann, not so long ago, stated that any melody, even the notorious Babylonian strain, the "Hoochie-Coochie," can be made into a beautiful symphonic with proper treatment. Can't Gershwin hear him calling? Can't he stop his labors on girl-and-music shows long enough to give us that beautiful "Hoochie-Coochie Symphony?"

* * *

Graham McNamee has only to express a wish on the radio for an oyster stew and he receives a barrel of oysters from Virginia. And yet they say an announcer's lot is not a happy one. During the next week it wouldn't surprise us to hear announcers air a wish for a mink, snappy roadster or a raccoon coat.

Ray Perkins, microphone comedian, offers a new word to radio's lexicon. Are you listening, Viertelly? It is "ethereitis," hardening of the eardrums due to too much listening to the ether waves.

While speakers march to the microphones to talk on unemployment relief, impresarios of the night clubs, headed by Will Oakland, are issuing "crying towels" of rough paper on which to wipe away the tears of depression.

REVIEWS OF NEW FILMS, HOLLYWOOD GOSSIP AND LOCAL THEATER NOTES

Former Ziegfeld Showgirl Signs New Contract For Film Work

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 19.

When Ziegfeld glorifies them, they always cash in. Claudia Dell, who once caught the eye of America's most famous picker, has signed a contract with Radio Pictures.

Until lately, Miss Dell has been with First National and Warner Brothers, where she appeared in "Sweet Kitty Bellaire," "Fifty Million Frenchmen" and other talkie efforts.

Claudia Dell

Upon the conclusion of her contract, she promptly signed the new agreement with R-K-O. Her first picture will be announced shortly.

The HEART OF HOLLYWOOD

While Dick Arlen still lay on the ground with powder burns from a blank cartridge, there came the droning voice of an assistant:

"Come on, let's set up for the next shot."

TIP-OFF

If anyone who knows the Morse code will listen carefully during the projection of Monta Bell's "Pues of Youth," he will be amazed by the message of a telegraph machine. A discharged employe of a certain Hollywood studio put over a fast one with the operator and won a unique revenge.

CHOOSE SKIPPY

Paramount's long search for "Skippy" is said to be at an end. According to reliable information, Percy Crosby's immortal cartoon hero will be played on the screen by Jackie Cooper, a member of Hal Roach's "Our Gang" troupe.

Also in the cast will be Jackie Searls, who played in "Tom Sawyer," and the inimitable Mitzi Green. Both of these child performers are under contract to Paramount.

The task of bringing the cartoon strip to the screen will be entrusted to Norman Taurog. Joseph Manklewicz is writing the dialogue.

I NOTE THAT

Joan Crawford and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., leave here Friday to spend the Christmas holidays in New York with Doug's mother. They must be back here for Doug to start in "Chances" on January 5. . . Eddie Guillan is richer by $500 a week under the terms of an option taken up by the Pathe studio . . . After only six weeks' work, Eric von Stroheim has turned in the completed script of "Blind Husbands," which is to be re-made by Universal. . . The Laemmle stronghold will expend $18,000,000 on its 1930-31 schedule.

Joan Crawford

TOGETHER AGAIN

Of interest to the Janet Gaynor-Charlie Farrell fans is the news that the two will be seen together again in "Merely Mary Ann."

The picture goes into production right after the first of the year. In the meanwhile Janet will return from Honolulu in time to spend the holidays in the North with her husband, Lydell Peck.

"Merely Mary Ann" will be the fourth talking picture of the popular team. They have appeared previously in "Sunnyside Up," "High Society Blues" and "The Man Who Came Back."

MRS. FISKE COMING; ALSO CARROLL REVUE

William Ingersoll, in his stage career of 48 years, has played in support of many great actresses—Margaret Mather, Margaret Illington, Marie Wainwright, Ethel Barrymore, Mary Shaw. Now he comes in support of Mrs. Fiske in "Ladies of the Jury," next week's Nixon bill.

Robert Fiske will have the role originated by Donald Meek, when the George Sharp Players present "Broken Dishes" in the Pitt next week. It is that of a henpecked husband who does housework while his wife and daughter take in the movies. The climax comes when Pa asserts himself.

The one-week engagement in the Shubert-Alvin of Earl Carroll's "Sketch Book" opens next Monday night as the Christmas week attraction. Matinees will be given Friday and Saturday. There will be no Wednesday matinee. The comedy element of this revue is in the hands of Will Mahoney, William Demarest and The Three Sailors.

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

By Way of Miami Beach, Florida.

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

Mr. P. W. Miller, of Cincinnati, probably is a cynic, already. . . . After rescuing 11 persons out of the water after that glass-bottom boat explosion near Miami Beach, he wrapped them in costly table linens to shield them from exposure . . . When they left Mr. Miller's boat they were asked to return the linens and the embroidered towels to his hotel the next day . . . Out of the 11 "grateful" survivors, but one returned the linen . . . He said that he had sent the towel home to his kin as a souvenir of his adventure! . . . A Jesuit missionary once told of native tribes in Brazil who possess no word corresponding to our word of "thanks," and who are utterly devoid of the idea of gratitude . . . But the rap who sent home the expensive towel without even asking if he might do so, is not from Brazil . . . He is from New York, which explains everything . . . That Bishop kid on the staff of the paper should be switched from the photo bureau to the reportorial division . . . He can describe without wasting wordage . . . I got a kick out of his letter, particularly that part where he told how lifeless the editorial rooms were the other night until the bank story broke.

"Then," he said, "everybody was dashing all over the place—the way chorus girls do—after the final curtain has dropped."

So John D. Rockefeller has shaved his tips from a dime to a jitney . . . Huh . . . If I handed anyone less than a two-bit piece I'd stifle from the "looks" . . . If I were a girl I wouldn't be so concerned about my lip rouge being on straight so much as I would be about the seams in my hosiery being crooked . . . It must be terrible to be a gal and have so-so shafts . . . One of the masters paraphrased the Golden Rule, which sounds very Broadwayish, viz:

"Do unto others as they would like to do unto you—but do it first!" . . . "How hard it is to honor a friend's success without a touch of envy."

That Coolidge tale is interesting, at that . . . When Calvin's term was about to end, two of the "minds" of the New York Herald Tribune had a swell idea.

"Why not approach the President," suggested one, "and find out how he feels about doing a daily piece for our paper?"

The Big Idea was to syndicate the matter, of course, and get richer . . . An appointment with Cal was arranged and the trio met . . . They discussed current events, politics and everything except what they came to chin about . . . Their consciences, it appears, bothered them.

A few weeks later representatives of a newspaper feature service called on Cal . . . They wasted no time:

"How much would you want?" they asked, "to write a few hundred words about everything you would like to write about every day?"

Coolidge chirped that he wouldn't consider working on the Sabbath, and that he would want a small fee . . . They told him they'd get him much more—and they certainly did . . . Thus, the Herald Tribune, which handles the Coolidge chatter in Manhattan, is paying a mere $700 weekly for its own idea.

An Associated Press flash says: "Chicago: Four killers have been sentenced to die Friday, Feb. 13" . . . I don't believe it . . . Wonder if it is true that a woman ankled into Leblang's cut-rate theater ticket office the other night (after witnessing two acts of "The Merchant of Venice") and demanded her coin back, saying: "Why didn't you tell me it was a child's show?" . . . Irving Berlin hasn't written a song in a long spell . . . That horsehip with which they flog that brownskin gal up at Connie's Inn is made of shoestrings . . . And when she is beaten by a "brute" with it, the tourists shudder . . . Edna St. Vincent Millay's friends are too sensitive . . . Because I reported that she got as much as $75 to $100 for a poem, they hasten to state that the Saturepost paid her $250 for one, and that she got $200 apiece for those five sonnets in a recent Post . . . And that a St. Louis rag has paid her much more . . . I see by the Associated Press and the Miami front pages that my Sunday night scoope about Wilda Bennett's secret marriage is confirmed . . . It does make the heart thump a little to know that it is just as easy to beat the town, even though you are 1,600 miles from it.

I dread the thought of returning to New York . . . Not while the thermometer on the Roney-Plazah sands registers 72 and the New York thermoms read 8! . . . Now that they have found Andree—what's become of Morris Gest? . . . And Ashton Stevens, who columns and defends the drama for the Chicago Herald-Examiner, says he gets a terrific thrill out of receiving letters from celebrities . . . The only thrill I get out of letters from celebrities, or from anyone, for that matter, is when their letters contain something that will help fill my column.

Wonder what that story is everybody tells you to get Father Duffy to tell? . . . Some of those humor magazines need editors who will save the publisher coin . . . Two of them last week ran drawings with gags that have appeared in everybody's column during the month . . . Edna Leedom and her husband just blew into Florida . . . Every time I hear her name I think of the last show I saw before they exiled me from all those theaters . . . Because I sub-titled her last starring show "Leedom and Weep" . . . A news item from Cambridge, England, states that Professor James C. Alder proposed in a lecture that the language of New York be nick-named "Slanguage" . . . Really? . . . I'm glad that Elinson Guy is loyal to me . . . His latest is:

"Poor Peggy Joyce. To most of us Christmas is a holiday, but to Peggy it's just another day."

Horatio Alger would have toyed with Val Cleary's career . . . Cleary was a ham several seasons ago, until he was stranded in Miami Beach . . . He was elected Mayor of the town the other day.

Singing Role

FILM MYSTERY STALKS AND BELLS JINGLE IN ENRIGHT

By MILDRED FILLMORE

The bells jingle, the snow falls and Dick Powell sings in the new stage show in the Enright. It is titled "Jingle Bells" and it is all quite Christmasy. Lou Boulton's "Kiddie Revue" is sandwiched in with it and this adds to the Yuletide atmosphere.

The screen has a talking version of the mystery drama, "The Gorilla." This is a mixture of thrills, melodrama and comedy. Joe Frisco and Harry Gribbon, as a couple of goofy sleuths, chase the "gorilla" all around the house and are always unearthing false clues. Walter Pidgeon and Lila Lee look after the romantics.

Getting back to the stage show, it also features a couple comedians. They are Bayes and Speck, two fellows who impersonate a railroad train and do some funny stepping. Mr. Powell takes his hand through several specialties.

Picks Maiden Name, Alimony Rejected

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—What's in a name? Mrs. Kathryn Kessler figured her maiden name worth more than $15 a week. She was given the choice of alimony to that amount or her maiden name. Miss Kathryn Miranda, when she appeared before Judge Harry A. Lewis yesterday for a divorce from her husband, Ernest. She took the name.

NEW STAR GIVES TALK TO TOL'ABLE DAVID IN THE WARNER

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

"Tol'able David," talk screen version of Richard Barthelmess' old film success, came yesterday to the Warner. With it came a new screen star—Richard Cromwell, by name.

Young Cromwell does commendable work in the title role. His mountain lad is a sincere lad. He lives, loves, hates and is tolerant with a naturalness that many veteran actors are unable to give their characters.

The film story, as many will recall, concerns a quiet, backward mountain boy, who finally is aroused to vengeance—vengeance against a rival clan that has left him fatherless. With a grand melodramatic flare, the climax breaks forth. A lone boy combats three giant men to the death. It is a realistic exhibition.

HERE COMES THE VILLAIN

The supporting cast is efficient. A number of the character portrayals are keenly done. The direction is intelligent and the cameras have imprisoned a colorful atmosphere.

Noah Beery is the villain. He has a black heart, a three-week beard and a great hunger. The sight of him dining, is enough to send an Emily Post into a faint.

A JOB WELL DONE

Helen Ware and Henry B. Walthall also are prominent in the cast.

Close analysis shows that "Tol'able David" is really nothing more than a story of a hero who makes good in the big mountains. If the scene were a big city and the boy had an armful of papers, it would be a typical Horatio Alger yarn. However, it is so well done by Mr. Cromwell, et al, that it is a worthwhile and, in spots, a beautiful piece of screen entertainment.

Victor Chenkin, one of Russia's prominent actors who become a singer of character songs, gave an amusing entertainment in Carnegie Hall last night. The audience understood him well and demanded many encores.

J. Fred Lissfelt

As a singer we can only take Chenkin seriously in his setting at the Chauve Souris. Without costume and gesture his music would belong to high class vaudeville. Even in costume his jester and Italian songs remain in the realm of light comedy. Though he displays a great variety of gesture in those songs, it is the classic gesture as practiced especially on the French stage, studied and stilted and made to fit each nuance in the music or diction.

During the Gypsy songs Chenkin began to relax and find his way to the naturalistic expression of the Russian theater, and both his Hebrew and Ukrainian songs were brilliant portraits. By this time his singing became less attractive, for it was entirely obscured by interest in the marvelous nuances of his speech and of his hands. His mimicry of the Chasidic Jew in meditation is full of pathos, and his comic scenes depicting the naivete of the orthodox remain wonderful in character.

The Ukrainian songs in the hands of a less gifted artist might have become maudlin, but Chenkin knows his peasant, dressed him and acted him well; blind beggar and vodka tippler, sentimental lover and ne'er-do-well, all a little Rabelaisian, were living persons and decidedly mirth provoking.

Jascha Fisherman played skillful accompaniments.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

FRAUD VICTIM, 73, ENDS LIFE

LONG BEACH, Cal., Dec. 19.—(AP.)—A suicide leap from the roof of a four-story apartment building ended the grief of Mrs. Mary Moore, 73, over the loss of her life savings of $20,000. The money was invested in what Mrs. Moore believed was fruit land near Salada Beach, Cal., but which turned out to be only a pile of rocks.

Leslie Moore, her husband, told police they came to California four months ago from Omaha, Neb., where he had retired from work as a railroad conductor.

The alleged fraud was laid before authorities, and, although plans were made to prosecute, his wife became despondent, Moore said.

Properly Cooked Oysters A Nutritious Food

Former Health Commissioner of New York City, United States Senator From New York.

Oysters have become one of the most democratic of foods. This is quite different from the old days when they were food luxuries. You can get them everywhere in the markets and at little cost as compared to a few years ago when they were regarded as luxuries.

As far as you want to go back in history, oysters have been used as food. Within the last century, even in those countries where the natural crop is largest, "oyster farming" is done on a large scale. The artificial cultivation of oysters has had to be resorted to in order to meet the annual consumption.

In this country, the seed-oysters are usually spread on carefully laid beds of shells, either old oyster or mussel shells. In Holland and France, they are placed on tiles ranged sideways in rows along the shores, and later removed to deeper waters. When ready for market, they are taken up by dredges or tongs. In England they are usually spread over smooth, hard clean areas.

GROW FOR THREE YEARS

On some oyster grounds there is a much more rapid rate of growth than in others. The growing period is usually about three years. Between March 1 and July 1, the planter shifts his oysters, which are intended for market in the fall, from the soft bottom bed to hard bottom. This clears the oysters of mud and gives them a better color and flavor. It also tends to separate the clusters into single oysters.

Oysters thrive best in pure waters. The trouble is, in some localities, the waters are not always pure. It behooves every one to be careful about which section the oysters come.

The oysters want to live in clean waters and to be clean. It is said that one single oyster will run through its shell and gills as much as a hundred gallons of water a day.

RICH IN IODINE

The oysters on the Atlantic Seaboard are among the best in the world. There are both large and small ones of all varieties. Their difference in size depends upon the age. The old ones are just as tender as the young ones.

Oysters are delicacies of the highest importance. While not as nourishing as fish, perhaps, they are excellent food. We need all the seafoods, because they carry iodine, and oysters are particularly rich in iodine.

Oysters are more digestible in the raw state than cooked. But if cooked properly, they are highly nutritious, particularly when served with milk as in oyster stew. If they are to be eaten raw, it is well to know their source. Unless you have confidence in the brand and the seller, it is wise to cook them. Be sure you get safe oysters for your family use, for when they are good they are one of the choicest of foods.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Is Feminine 'Good Sport' A Safe Marrying Bet?

How about it, Big Boy—would you marry a girl who had been a big time necker?

If not—why not?

Personally, I don't see why you shouldn't—if you've gone in for petting yourself, and demanded the same from your lady friends. But plainly, Prentis doesn't agree with me. He's "been around," so he assures us. But when he gets tired of having a "good time," he fully expects to marry a sweet little modest violet who "hasn't been mauled and don't cheat on him." He doesn't mention how much "cheating" he may do.

Prentis Disagrees

Bonnie began this riot. She wrote a red-hot letter to this department, handing the rass to boys who wouldn't date a girl unless she was a Hot Mama. And Cecelia agreed with her. She petted plenty . . . and she couldn't see why it should be held against her. Listen to Prentis telling her . . .

"My dear Miss Martin:

"Just read Cecilia's letter and thought I'd say a few says on the subject. If Cecilia just knew it, she's nothing but a sap. The boys she knows 'respect her,' do they?

Well! Well! She may think they do. . .but I can tell her different. No man respects or wants to marry her kind of a girl. I know. . .And I've been out plenty. . .with her sort, too. In fact, I've picked 'em to go out with because all I was looking for was a good time, and they were live wires and furnished it.

Doesn't Want Her Kind

"I'll admit that I've never sought out the 'modest violet' who wouldn't unbend and give me a kiss. But I certainly don't expect to ever marry Cecelia's kind. I want to marry a girl who hasn't been common. . . who hasn't been mauled by every Tom, Dick and Harry who ever gave her the Glad Eye. I want to marry a girl who won't cheat on me. And you can't trust Cecelia's kind.

"Sure, the boys tell her they like her—now. Why should they insult their fun? But 10 years from now, she'll be singing a different song. She'll see, then, just how much her 'popularity' has cost her.

And if I'm not mistaken, she suspects the truth, even now, or she wouldn't be talking so much about "respect" and defending herself for her actions. If she didn't have a doubt, she wouldn't have so much to say about "not caring what the boys think."

"The plain truth is that Cecelia is nothing but a 'party girl,' even if she is technically 'respectable,' and she knows it.

"PRENTIS."

Well, why not, big boy? You admit you've gone in strong, yourself, for her kind of a big time. So why figure you're any better than she is? Or more dependable as a husband than she would be as a wife? Do you think the male of the species is made of some sort of moral asbestos that keeps him from being scorched by what blisters the female?

"You ask, 'Would you marry a girl like Cecelia?'

"Well, why not? She's honest, at least, in expressing her views, and that's more than a lot of the 'goody-goodies' are. And if she pets . . . well, so do most of us fellows, so why hang the crepe on her for it?

Different Views

"I have taken out lots of girls myself and, although I have never looked toward petting as 'payment,' I'll admit I have petted plenty. Personally, I would marry Cecelia's type, rather than a little prude, because she has seen, met and mingled with enough men to know her own mind when she meets the right one, and to settle down and make him happy when she gets him.

"And I can't see why any fellow, who stops to think a little, doesn't feel the same way I do. Fellows and girls are all just human beings and, if one has a right to pet and still expect respect and a place in respectable society, why hasn't the other?

"If a fellow has never petted himself, then maybe he's got a right to turn up his nose at a girl who does, but otherwise, no.

"Them's my sentiments, and I stick to 'em! "SAM."

All right! Let's have a Free-for-All!

Come on, boys! Let's have your ideas.

If Petting Paul is all right as a husband, why isn't Necking Nelly O. K. as a wife?

Quiet, Unassuming Personality Usually the Most Reliable, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

Some persons can act their jolliest when they have the most reason to be sad.

They seek crowds and gaiety to avoid being alone with regrets and remorse.

Many who can assume hilarity and boisterousness are melancholy and morose when alone.

The quiet, unassuming personality which is neither too gay nor too angelic is usually the most reliable and the most sincere.

Madge Is Drafted to Accompany Pair on Expedition

At Katherine's news that Mr. Veritzen had stolen a march on us and telephoned the farm asking to talk to his son, I caught my breath in dismay, and involuntarily turned my startled eyes to the others gathered in the sitting room of our hotel suite. They all with one accord drew nearer to me, but Mary was the only one who spoke.

"Oh, what is it?" she wailed softly, and I saw Lillian clasp her firmly, while she whispered something patently heartening.

"Did Noel talk to him?" I asked.

"No, indeed he did not," she said emphatically, and I voiced a hurried "Wait a second," and turned to the four waiting faces.

"Noel didn't talk," I said, and Mary gave a long, sobbing sigh of relief, while the tension lessened in the faces of Dicky and the Underwoods. I turned back to the telephone.

"Tell me just what happened, Katherine," I said.

"He finished and hung up the receiver only a minute ago," Katherine said with a tinge of amusement in her voice. "I imagine the wires have melted from wherever he was calling, he was in such a rage. He is too much of a gentleman to employ a fishwife's vocabulary, but every inflection of his voice was a profane epithet applied to me. And all because I told him I would not take the responsibility of wakening Noel for anybody ,not even his father. I wanted to say especially his father, but I nobly refrained."

"We might have known enough not to worry with you on the job," I told her, "but Mr. Veritzen is diabolically clever. He is determined to see Noel within the next day or two and we are equally determined he shall not, at least not until after Mary's party. It is certain that he will either meet the trains tomorrow or come down to the farmhouse tonight, so Harry and Dicky are starting—wait a minute——" I turned back to the men. "When?"

"Can you be ready in 10 minutes?" Harry Underwood asked Dicky.

"Five," my husband returned, and I had put my lips to the mouthpiece again, when Lillian said quietly:

"Tell her to hold the line and come over here for a second or two."

I obeyed, as I always do when Lillian makes one of her rare demands, and she clapped her hands on my shoulder as she turned to our men, who were looking at her in astonishment.

"As I was saying when I was interrupted," she quoted the lovable old Autocrat with a twisted little smile, "Noel's nervous condition is altogether too serious for you two men to tackle successfully. Mary, of course, has the most influence over him, but she couldn't talk or he listen with the impartial detachment needed in this case. So, it's up to Madge, I'm afraid, to take him this news concerning his father. She's the only one who has any chance of bringing him up here, 'clothed and in his right mind.' Therefore, I'm afraid it's up to her to join your raiding party. I'll stay here to guard the donjon keep—and Mary."

"Of course I'll go," I said, shaking my head at Dicky, who had uttered a belligerent "But." "Now, what shall I tell Katherine?"

Mr. Underwood looked at his watch. "How long will it take you to get ready?" he asked.

"Five minutes," I returned demurely.

Then tell her we'll be at the farm in three and a half hours, perhaps before. Ask her to have all Noel's things packed and ready for him, if he hasn't attended to them himself, as I imagine he has if he plans to come in on that morning train. She doesn't need to waken him until we get there. He can put on his shoes in the car and we can be started back a quarter of an hour after we get there. Now shoot."

I meticulously repeated to Katherine all Mr. Underwood's directions, and, turning from the telephone, walked to the closet for my hat and motor coat.

"Here!" Lillian caught up a warm scarf and thrust it into my hand. "Put that in your pocket and when you get in the car exchange your hat for it. If you take plenty of pillows and can exchange your hat for the scarf, you'll be more comfortable." But, striking one hand into the other, "what dolts we are. Phil Veritzen is doubtless in the lobby and in another minute you'd have been marching past him on an expedition which could not help but arouse his curiosity, to put it mildly."

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Buffet Service

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A girl friend and I are planning to have a party, at which a large number will attend. How shall we serve the refreshments? It will be quite impossible for us to set a table, since the number of guests will be so large.

PUZZLED.

It won't be at all necessary for you to set a table, for, as a matter of fact, at most parties of his kind, the refreshments are served buffet fashion. Have your table attractively set for this buffet service, with as handsome a cloth as you have, and an artistic flower or fruit (or a combination of both) centerpiece. Then at one end of the table you could have a hot drink, say chocolate, with all the accessories for its service—sugar, whipped cream, and so forth. At the other end, you could have a punch bowl or a large pitcher of fruit punch of some kind. Have plates or platters of sandwiches on this table, and dishes of nuts and candies and preserved fruits, if you want.

Ask several of your close friends to "assist," and they may pass a plate with a napkin on it to each guest. Or the gentlemen can do the serving. Or both. These plates may also be piled on the buffet table, "sandwiched" with napkins. The details of your menu are served from the buffet table or from the kitchen.

An Excellent Rule to Remember

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please let me know if it is correct to eat corn saute with green peppers with a fork, or would you use a teaspoon?

MARIE.

This should be eaten with a fork. When we are eating vegetables, "if possible, use a fork," is an excellent rule to remember.

'Pouring' in a Restaurant

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Will you please help me? When dining in a restaurant with a gentleman and coffee is served in pots, who pours if the waiter does not do this?

2. Are peas conveyed to the mouth with a spoon or a fork?

MISS M. J.

1. I always like to see the woman pouring the coffee or tea, when she is dining with a gentleman. Somehow it seems more appropriate, more hostessy, if she pours. But, of course, this is as the couple wishes. If the woman wishes to pour, she may say to her host, "May I pour the coffee?" or "Would you like to have me pour the tea?" or "May I do the honors?" And then she will see the expression of relief on the face of her companion! She can make this serving of the tea or coffee a very charming one, delightfully done.

2. With a fork.

When Walking

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

Will you kindly tell me the proper place for a man to walk when he is walking on the street with two young ladies? PAT.

Whether the man walks with one lady or with two ladies, he walks on the side of the pavement nearest the curb.

Household Hints

One housewife has the wall in back of her gas stove painted with waterproof varnish after each general painting. Spots can be wiped right off of this surface.

To whiten and soften the hands—Moisten Indian meal with a little vinegar or lemon juice and rub the hands thoroughly; wash off with hot water, [illegible] thoroughly dry, [illegible] glycerine.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Saturday, December 20.

The conflicting aspects found among the planets in force on this day point to some adverse, perplexing and complicated situations. Employment may develop a critical or inharmonious condition, which may be heightened by a predisposition to dispute and wrangle. Also this tendency may affect personal matters. But new projects and deals with secret bodies or combinations may flourish, possibly through intrigue or shrewd manipulation.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year calling for much shrewd, guarded and clever management, as there are possibilities for friction in the home and in employment, aggravated by a tendency to rash acts and quick speech. New undertakings, especially with large or secret bodies, may be successfully launched by diplomacy, strategy or secret bodies.

A child born on this day should be quick, versatile and clever, but may be irritable, impulsive and tempestuous, which may defeat its rise in employment.

Prudence Penny's Recipes

Fried croutons of bread or buttered toast slices.

Trim asparagus stalks to uniform length, wash and tie in six bundles. Cook in boiling water until tender, keeping tips above water for the first 10 minutes. Just before cooking is completed salt the water. Make a white sauce of butter, flour, milk and seasonings and add strained juice of 1 orange. Serve on fried croutons of bread or a slice of buttered toast with sauce poured over the tips.

* * *

CRABMEAT A LA KING—Add a cup of crabmeat and ½ tablespoon red and green peppers, finely chopped, to a cup of white sauce made with cream. Serve on fresh toast.

* * *

LIME MALLOW SPONGE—Dissolve a package of the new lime gelatine in boiling water; using a pint of water. Add 10 marshmallows, finely cut, and stir until dissolved. Chill until cold and syrupy. Place in a bowl of cracked ice or ice water and whip with a rotary egg beater until fluffy and thick like whipped cream. Pile into sherbet glasses and chill until firm. Or turn into the freezing tray of the automatic refrigerator and chill 1½ to 2 hours.

* * *

SWEET APPLE CIDER — Use fully ripened apples free from decay. Wash them thoroughly and remove all leaves. Crush the apples and extract the juice, or cider, in a clean press. Place the juice in a large open preserving kettle and boil it down until it is reduced one-half, skimming it often. Pour at once into hot sterilized jars and seal; or pour the fresh juice at once in jars, put the covers in place loosely, without the rubber, stand the jars in a washboiler on a false bottom, surround them in a bath of warm water to within a few inches of the top of the jars. Cover boiler, place on fire and let water boil and steam 1 hour. Remove jars one at a time, put a new rubber in place and seal at once. This will keep indefinitely.

CHOCOLATE ROLL—Five eggs, 1 cup sugar, sifted, 3 tablespoons cocoa, 1 tablespoon flour, ½ pint cream, whipped, 2 tablespoons sugar.

Beat the yolks of the eggs and the sugar together for 10 minutes or for 6 minutes with an electric beater. Add the cocoa mixed with flour and the stiffly beaten egg whites by folding them into the egg and sugar mixture. Put a piece of heavy wax paper on a cooky sheet which measures 11x15 inches. Spread the chocolate roll mixture over this. Place in 350 degree oven for 25 minutes. Spread with the sweetened whipped cream and roll like a jelly roll. Wrap in wax paper or towel and chill in the refrigerator. Slice and top with chopped nuts.

* * *

OYSTER STEW—One quart of oysters; 4 cups scalded milk; ¼ cup butter; ½ tablespoon salt; ⅛ teaspoon pepper.

Clean oysters by placing them in a colander and pouring cold water over them. Reserve the liquor, heat it to the boiling point; strain through double cheesecloth, add oysters and cook until the oysters are plump and the edges begin to curl. Place the oysters in the dish in which the stew is to be served, add butter and pepper and salt. Add oyster liquor strained a second time and milk. Serve at once.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

A Cool Head an Asset in Accidents

Burns and scalds are common accidents. Often they lead to serious and disabling conditions. In children and old people such accidents are extremely dangerous. Great care and nursing may be required to save the lives of such injured persons.

DR. COPELAND

Burns are commonly caused by exposure to fires, hot metals, or electric currents, or by contact with strong acids or alkalies. Neglect in the handling of steam, boiling water, or hot oil, and hot beverages, such as tea or coffee, often leads to scalding. Scalds of a severe type are serious and in every respect approach the dangers of burns.

If you have been careless and your clothing catches on fire, never run for help. Running will stir the flames and cause them to burn more. It is best to lie down on the floor, and roll up in an overcoat or blanket. If such a covering is not within reach, simply lie down and roll over slowly. As you roll, beat out the flames with your hands.

Never become excited if you can help it. Coolness in this predicament will undoubtedly save you much discomfort, anxiety and great danger.

When the skin is reddened from a burn or scald, there is usually severe burning pain. The skin becomes red and, eventually, blisters form. If the burn is more severe, there may be actual destruction of the skin and underlying structures.

In the minor burn or scald, where the skin is simply reddened, it is not always necessary to call a doctor. In such a case it is best to keep the air away from the reddened area. This is done by applying a thin paste made of water and baking soda, flour or starch. Vaseline, carbolized vaseline, olive oil, castor oil, or fresh lard may be used. A light dressing, held in place by a bandage, will give desirable protection.

If blisters have formed, the same treatment may be used, but then it is always best to consult with a physician. Where there is extensive destruction of the skin and the tissues beneath the skin, the doctor should be called at once. Serious cases require the most capable and scientific treatment at our disposal.

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," it has been said. Nowhere is this truer than with regard to burns and scalds. Great care should be taken to avoid such damage of the skin.

Answers to Health Queries

A. O. Q.—What do you advise for pernicious anemia? What causes numbness of the limbs, and what treatment would you suggest?

A.—This condition requires specific medical attention and advice. Have your doctor advise you. Poor circulation would account for the numbness. With improved health the circulation will improve.

* * *

THANK YOU. Q.—What do you advise for "pink eye?"

A.—"Pink eye" is due to infection, and should have proper medical attention and treatment. Have your doctor advise you.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

One of the most distressing results of ill-fitting shoes and high heels is the hammer toe. The second or third toe doubles up on itself. Sometimes the poor toe has to be amputated. Surprising in our modern civilization that women won't wear comfortable shoes!

Soft corns between the toes are produced by moisture; therefore the surface of the skin should be kept dry with pads of absorbent cotton. If pus is present place the toe in hot water, or apply hot boric dressings. Ingrowing nails are the penalty paid for wearing shoes that are either too short or too narrow. Remove pressure, and toes take care of themselves.

Beauty may be likened to a lovely lamp; intelligence is the spark that lights it. Time was when it was taken for granted that if a woman was beautiful she didn't know anything. She's got to know plenty now. Or she won't get a second look. Intelligence, humor, affability, all pleasing emotions, compose beauty; without them good looks are nothing more than a shell. Outward loveliness is priceless, but it isn't the whole works.

Cold water is a cosmetic that is not sufficiently appreciated. It tones tissues, stirs up blood streams, helps sweat glands to function. It should be used freely at least twice a day, no matter what complexion ill may be present.

When putting cold cream or a massage on the complexion, begin at the chin and work upward. The rotary motion should have upward, outward pressure. Won't do to pull down the tissues. When the cream is distributed, slap with the flattened finger tips. Smooth lines crosswise, those that gully the forehead, those that furrow down between the eyes, also those that travel from lip ends to nostrils.

Keep an orange wood stick in the bathroom, where it will remind you that the cuticle at the base of the nail should be lifted daily and pushed back gently, so that the half moon at the nail base will show, and no hang-nails will form. After washing the hands with warm soad suds, the cuticle about the nails is soft and pliable. Rubbing with a soft towel will fluff away dead cells, narrow down the cuticle border and keep it healthy.

SCHAAF MAY STOP NEW HEAVY'S RISE

THE TEST OF the newest bidder for recognition as a contender for the world heavyweight fistic championship comes tonight, when Max Baer, California knockout specialist, meets Ernie Schaaf, of Boston, for 10 rounds in New York. It will be the Eastern debut of Baer, and an event calculated to determine whether his numerous coast victories were due to actual class on his part or to lack of it on the side of the opposition. Max, who is said to appraise himself so highly that he rivals Jack Sharkey and Art Shires as a loud-speaker, has been a sensation in his home region, where he lost only one fight out of 27, won 24 by knockouts, and scored 110 knockdowns in 100 rounds.

Ernie Schaaf

That would appear to leave no room for doubt that he carries a sock. K. O. Christner, who stopped George Panka here Monday night, vouches further for this by pronouncing Baer the hardest hitter in the present heavyweight crop. To be accepted as a title possibility, however, Max will have to display more than a punch, and whether or not he possesses the other necessary qualities is what tonight's bout is expected to show.

THE CALIFORNIAN'S PHYSICAL make-up is impressive. He towers 6 feet 3 inches, scales 198 pounds and is built on the order of Jack Dempsey, with a shoulder spread of 39 inches tapering to a 31-inch waistline. In his Eastern gymnasium workouts he has appeared to be rather faulty on defense and to have much to learn at fighting inside, but his handlers say his offense is his best defense and predict that Schaaf will not be able to withstand his attack.

Most ring followers in the East are waiting to be convinced on that score, however. Schaaf is not a champion, nor a one-punch knockout artist, but that he has a heap of class is evidenced by the fact that he beat Tommy Loughran twice this year, and also holds victories over Johnny Risko, Jack Renault, Al Friedman, Big Boy Peterson, Yale Okun, Benny Touchstone and others. He twice knocked out Jack Gagnon, who stopped Tuffy Griffiths. Recently, Johnny Buckley bought his contract from Phil Schlosberg for $12,500, and Buckley never throws any money away on a fighter without possibilities. Baer has a big job on his hands to keep Schaaf from winning tonight on a decision. Max's only chance is to win by a knockout, and the odds appear to be against this. Not only has Schaaf never been knocked out, but he has never even been knocked off his feet for a second.

WHILE SOME OF the old coaches, notably Max Carey, Fred Hunter, Benny Myer, Jack McCallister and probably Irish Meusel, are passing out of the major baseball leagues, other veterans are coming back in that capacity, as witness the signing of Jack Onslow to replace Hunter with the Phillies.

Jack Onslow

This will be the fourth big league club with which Onslow has been associated as coach, which is just about a record. The Tarentum man formerly coached for the Pirates and Cardinals in the National League and for the Senators in the American. During the last two seasons he was with Newark in the International League.

IN ATTEMPTS TO be humorous or to be sticklers for detail, outsiders may question the propriety of calling a team of Carideos, Schwartzes and Metzgers the "Irish," but Notre Dame men love that nickname and don't want any other. They say they are proud of their traditional nom de guerre, and that as long as Notre Dame is Notre Dame the South Benders will continue to be called the Irish. As John McMahon says they enjoy it, they like it, it has been theirs for almost 100 years, and they have no intention of giving it up, even if there are not as many A. O. H. names on the roster as in years gone by. Anyhow, 1930 was only one year. What about that line of 1929, that read like this from end to end: Collins, Leahy, Law, Moynihan, Cannon, Twomey and Colrick?

IN DEFENDING THE nickname and meeting the objections of the realists, student publications at Notre Dame remark that Yale teams are not composed of bull dogs, Princeton men are not tigers, there are no wildcats at Northwestern, no Indians are playing for Dartmouth, and not all Pennsylvania men are Quakers. Most of the New York Nationals are far from being giants, there are no senators playing for Washington, and one young journalist says he would wager that you couldn't find one real, swash-buckling pirate in the whole city of Pittsburgh.

"The term is our own," writes another. "It has been ours for years. We are perfectly satisfied with it. In fact we like it, and we have every right to any nickname we select. Objections, we assume, come from very literal-minded persons or from distorted conceptions of humor. Such traits are not usually found in sporting gentlemen, fans or writers. It's rather far-fetched, making such petty objections to nicknames."

FOOTBALL CRITICS AND fans out on the Pacific coast are still guessing as to the truth or falsity of the report that Pop Warner may leave Stanford to succeed Lud Wray as coach at Penn.

Pop Warner

Warner denied that he had received any offer from the latter institution, but when he quietly checked out of a Pasadena hotel the other day the gossips jumped at the conclusion that he had started eastward for a business talk.

POP ADMITS THAT he would grab the Penn job in a minute at the reported salary, $25,000, which is said to be twice the amount he receives at Stanford. He says he has no contract to bind him to Stanford, where he has been coaching for seven years, but is merely working under a "gentleman's agreement." Conditions are satisfactory at the Palo Alto school, Warner adds, and he will stick there unless some big financial inducement is made, as in the reported Penn offer. Stanford athletic officials announced a few days ago that they would not stand in Pop's way if he desired to leave. All of which would give the impression that both sides hope the rumor is true that Penn will make a big offer to Warner. But it probably isn't.

ANOTHER CHAMPION WENT overboard last night, when Erwin Rudolph captured the world pocket billiard laurels by defeating Ralph Greenleaf, the defending titleholder, in the final match of the eight-cornered annual championship tournament in New York, 125 to 120. There has been no more cleanly-cut victory in cue sports than that of Rudolph, as he won every one of his seven games in impressive style, defeating the entire field, while Greenleaf lost two out of seven.

And this is not the first evidence of Rudolph's rare class as a pocket billiardist, as he won the title once before in 1927 and last year captured his first six games, only to lose the final and then the play-off to Greenleaf. The latter, though dethroned, still is far ahead of all competitors in the all-time records, as he has held the championship 11 times.

CHICAGOAN TOPS GREENLEAF IN FINAL TILT

Rudolph staged a great uphill fight to upset the defending champion, Ralph Greenleaf, of New York, in the final match of the championship round-robin tournament last night, 125-120, in 37 innings, and wound up his tournament record with seven straight victories. Greenleaf was runner-up with five victories and two defeats.

HELD 1927 CROWN

The Chicagoan held the world title once before, defeating Greenleaf in a challenge match here in January, 1927. Four months later, however, he was beaten by Tommy Hueston and surrendered the crown. Under the present rules, he can hold the title for one year without being subject to challenge.

Rudolph was born in Cleveland, and will celebrate his thirty-sixth birthday on December 30. He first started to play billiards at the age of 15. Within two years he won the Ohio State pocket billiards championship and successfully defended it three years.

Rudolph took part in his first world championship in Chicago in 1921, and finished tenth in a field of 12. His career was interrupted for 18 months while he served with the Three Hundred and Thirty-first Infantry in France.

BEAT PITTSBURGHER

After the 1921 championship, Rudolph withdrew from title competition until 1926 at Philadelphia, where he finished second to Greenleaf. In January of the following year he beat Greenleaf for the title and then successfully defended it two months later against Harry Oswald, of Pittsburgh. Two months later he was beaten by Tommy Hueston for the title.

In the spring of 1928 he tied Frank Taberski for second place in the Chicago tournament and finished fourth in another tourney held at Chicago later in the same year.

He came to life in the 1929 Detroit championship, however, and won his first six games. He faced Greenleaf in the seventh and was beaten, the championship winding up in a deadlock between these two stars. Greenleaf won the playoff and the title.

HIGH-RUN PLAYER

Rudolph rates as one of the most spectacular players in the game. He is a daring, rapid shooting star. Only last year he ran out a game in a world championship in 32 minutes. Once he beat Greenleaf, 100 to 8, in 20 minutes. Rudolph is known as a high-run player and often wagers that in every game he plays he will make a run of 50 or better. The final standing of the 1930 tournament:

	W.	L.	High Run
Erwin Rudolph, Chicago	7	0	47
Ralph Greenleaf, New York	5	2	104
Onofrio Lauri, New York	4	3	51
Frank Taberski, Schenectady	4	3	46
Arthur Woods, New York	3	4	63
Bannie Allen, Kansas City	3	4	35
Pasquale Natalie, Chicago	1	6	42

Basketball Rules Quiz

PLAY NO. 17.

A Purdue player receives a pass and juggles the ball as he fumbles and then starts to dribble. The same player, while standing still in the back court, bounces the ball up and down on the floor.

What are the correct rulings?

ANSWER.

In the first case, the referee rules that a dribble has been completed when the player juggles the ball and calls a violation for a double dribble.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE PORCELAIN TOWER OF BANGKOK—The most notable works of architecture in Siam have some religious significance and are marked by elaborate detail in ornament and design. When a vessel carrying fine porcelain from England was wrecked in the Gulf of Siam, some of the cargo was salvaged and Siamese craftsmen used the pottery to construct the remarkable porcelain tower. This structure is only one of the interesting and novel bits of architecture within the Siamese Royal Palace grounds in Bangkok. CLYDE SCHOOLER JOINED THE ARMY AT 14—Schooler, whose home is 132 Lorenz avenue, Akron, O., was born December 27, 1900. He joined the army June 23, 1915, when he was thought to be 21 years old, and was sent to the Mexican border. Subsequently he served on five battle fronts in France and was discharged April 3, 1919, having just passed his eighteenth birthday with four years in the service.

Eddie Klein, who are playing stellar roles for the Charleroi Merchants this season. Wherever you find Drotar when the basketball season is ushered in you are certain to find Eddie.

Although both are mere youngsters in the professional sport, Drotar and Klein have been teammates on no less than four different teams during the last 10 years.

STARRED FOR SALTZERS

Starting out as members of the old Duquesne Saltzers, former champions of the West Penn League, with whom they played for a long stretch, Drotar and Klein shifted their allegiance to the Newark (N. J.) Western Electric quintet when the Saltzers disbanded as an organization.

After spending a year with the Newark quintet, both boys returned to the scene of their early successes and joined the Duquesne Lafayettes, four times winners of the Allegheny County League championship.

This year, Drotar and Klein, along with Gyp Wunderlich and several other Duquesne luminaries, were signed to represent the Charleroi Merchants in the County League. Getting off to a slow start, the Merchants, thanks to the efforts of the Duquesne trio, appear to have struck their winning stride. Charleroi was the first club to stop the winning streak of the Duquesne Lafayettes.

Pair Are Drowned Training for Ice Championship

NEWBURGH, N. Y., Dec. 19.—(AP.)—Two young skaters training for championship races and a man who tried to rescue them were drowned at Salisbury Mills Wednesday night and their bodies were not recovered until yesterday.

The dead were: Isabelle Ryder, 16, of Newburgh; Ralph Gaffney, of Newburgh, her companion, and Thomas Sager, 31, of New Windsor.

Sager and his wife were watching the two skaters from the bank when the ice broke. Calling to Mrs. Sager to get a plank, her husband went out over the thin, cracked ice in an effort to reach the boy and the girl, but he broke through just before he came to them. Mrs. Sager ran for aid, but when she returned with several persons the three had disappeared.

Miss Ryder and Gaffney were training for the Middle Atlantic Skating Championships, to be held here on New Year's Day.

DUKES BEAT ALUMNI FIVE

The basketball alumni of Duquesne University, another all-star combination which failed to star, went down before Chick Davies' crack current combination 31 to 23 last night as the Red and Blue passers made their first appearance of the year. The regular schedule of games does not get under way until New Year's night when Lehigh University comes here but the famous basketeers of the past caused lots of excitement.

Capt. Roy O'Donovan brought the famous players of 1927 and 1928 on the floor just as he did at the height of his floor stardom on the Bluff. He was the same Puss O'Donovan to the crowd, a fair turnout, and he brought forth plenty of applause. John D. Holahan, graduate manager of athletics at Duquesne, did well in gathering his team for all the great-names of the past were on hand. So John stepped out of his graduate manager role to play coach.

VARSITY SETS PACE

Johnny Serbin and Roy O'Donovan started at the forwards for the Alumni quintet and stayed in there until the final whistle closed the game with the varsity ahead. Sticks Monohan jumped center for the Alumni. The guards were taken care of by Dom DeMaria, the fastest man who ever played for the Dukes, and Jock Rosenberg, the Gibraltar pivot and feeder of unique Davies formations. Moon Klinzing went in later for DeMaria and Dick Schrading, who proved the scoring punch for the Alumni, was substituted by "Coach" Holahan for Jock Rosenberg.

At only one time, shortly after the second half began, were the Alumni passers in the lead. Dick Schrading raised a 12-to-8 score which stood at half time in favor of the Varsity, by dropping in a perfect basket and Johnny Serbin made good two foul tries, proving that Serbin had not lost any of his skill in that latter art. The high light of the game was the sequence to Serbin's tying shots, Dick Schrading dribbling from basket to basket for another hoop.

M'GEEVER DOES WELL

Bunk McGeever, lanky Duke center, made good one of two foul tries donated by Moon Klinzing. As the second attempt failed, Subly Irwin added to the one-point lead given by McGeever's efforts by snatching the ball and dropping a field goal into the net. The Varsity advantage grew as the game progressed.

Buff Donnelli's frosh quintet trimmed the Wilmerding Y. M. C. A. five, 47-21, in the preliminary game.

The lineups:

Varsity—31.		Alumni—23.
Pawlina	F.	Serbin
Niederberger	F.	O'Donovan
Venneri	C.	Monohan
Veltri	G.	DeMaria
Wilder	G.	Rosenberg

Substitutions—Abele for Pawlina, McGeever for Venneri, Stephens for Veltri, Parry for Wilder, Irwin for Neiderberger, Pawlina for Abele, Klinzing for DeMaria, Schrading for Rosenberg, DeMaria for Klinzing. Carnera Stops Reggie Meen In Second

LONDON, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—Primo Carnera, Italian man-mountain, brushed aside the puny efforts of Reggie Meen, English heavyweight, in less than two rounds at Albert Hall here last night. The referee stopped the unequal struggle after Meen had been floored twice in the second round.

Meen, an English youth of 203 pounds, was game enough and received a great ovation in the first round when he held the 268-pound Venetian on fairly even terms.

Carnera settled down to business in the second round and floored his man twice and the big crowd yelled for the referee to halt the carnage. It was Carnera's first appearance in England since his American tour and he showed improvement in speed and footwork.

YOUNG HEAVIES PRIMED FOR GO TONIGHT

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—Two members of the "younger set," Ernie Schaaf, of Boston, and Max Baer, of San Francisco, clash in the feature bout in Madison Square Garden tonight with high hopes of landing in the foreground of the heavyweight picture.

Schaaf, although he has campaigned successfully in the East for several years, never before has had a chance to perform in the Garden. Baer will be making his debut in the East.

SPLENDID RECORD

The Pacific Coast lad has been well-advertised. It remains to be seen whether he can live up to his advance notices. His record would seem to indicate that he can, for he has won 24 of his 27 matches by knockouts, and been beaten only once. Schaaf is one of the best of the younger heavyweights. He holds two decisions over Tommy Loughran, clever Philadelphian, and also has beaten old Johnny Risko.

Both youngsters have a great chance to stampede their way into a contending position among the heavyweights. The public is somewhat weary of the familiar faces and is ready to welcome any newcomer to the ranks who can boast a punch and a little color.

COLORFUL FIGHTER

Baer, in particular, should appeal to John H. Fan if he can prove that his youthful confidence in himself has not been misplaced. He is of tremendously powerful build, particularly in the shoulders and arms and he has proved that he can punch with either hand. Whether he can connect solidly when he is faced with as clever and experienced a boxer as Schaaf remains to be seen. The bout is for 10 rounds, but Baer is confident he can end it within five.

ALL-AMERICA TEAM PICKED

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—Collier's Weekly yesterday made public its All-America football selections for 1930. The first team selections follow:

Ends—Dalyrymple, Tulane, and Fesler, Ohio State.

Center—Ticknor, Harvard.

Quarterback—Carideo, Notre Dame.

Fullback—Macaluso, Colgate.

The magazine, through its "selection committee," named two additional players as "utility men." They are Mel Hein, Washington State's center, as utility lineman, and Orville Mohler, Southern California quarterback, as utility back.

ALABAMA OFF FOR COAST

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Dec. 19.—(AP.)—Alabama's Crimson Tide was primed today for its third journey to Pasadena, Cal., to engage a Pacific Coast champion in the Rose Bowl.

The official party of 82 aboard the special pulling out today included Dr. George Denny, president of the university, 35 of the crimson-shirted horde, coaches, university officials and prominent citizens of the state.

STEFFEN SOON TO APPOINT TECH CAPTAIN

CHOICE OF 1931 LEADER REAL PROBLEM

By JESS CARVER.

Judge Wally P. (Carnegie Tech) Steffen, as he pretties in a very dignified manner on his Superior Court bench in Chicago, has something on him mind these days besides what to buy the wife and kiddies for Christmas and how to pay for it afterward.

Giles Armentrout

The good judge, who serve as advisory coach of football out at the Oversmoke-Carnegie institution of learning, is turning over and over in his mind the captaincy problem for '31. At Tech, you know, as at Pitt, the gridiron leader is appointed. Tech, in fact, started the habit three years ago when Johnny Dreshar was named.

With an array of veterans graduating, Carnegie's ranks of experienced performers are well-thinned out. Judge Steffen's choice has been narrowed down to about three men, but the fact that the field fromm which he must pick is small does not in any way make the task any the easier

DUCANIS RN LINE

Giles Armentrout, Harry McCurdy, backs, and capable, hard-fighting and dependable Alex Ducanis, one of the three is going to receive the honor. If Duranis wasn't such a quiet, retiring sort of a chap, he'd be almost a sure shot. Armentrout hasn't figured as a starting back during his two years of service with the varsity, and McCurdy, who started out as varsity quarterback this year, relinquished the job to Stu Deuzer when things didn't go exactly right.

With Thayer Flanagan, Dutch Eyth, Joe Mcorbito and John Karcis lost to the team for next year, Armentrout is almost certain to be a regular starter, and may be used as a fullback. The closer choice seems to lie between him and Duranis.

Judge Steffen won't make his choice known until after the first of the year and until after he has gone into a huddle with Coach Bob Waddell.

The Tipoff

The tri-state district's interscholastic wrestling program, which annually runs from itself to the tooting and puffing of some men from West Virginia University, Marshall College and Waynesburg, gets up tonight with the Jackets and Mountaineers twraklng one another's noozles, arms and legs at Waynesburg.

Jim Miller, the athletic director at Waynesburg, is a nut on the mat sport and coaches the Jacket grapplers. He took his athletes on a short jaunt through the East this week, and the boys didn't do at all badly. Now he'll toss 'em against West Virginia, where wrestling has been going along in very fine fashion for the past three or four years.

Der Hazie Hannom, who occupies the chair of sports publicity direction at Carnegie Tech and who has been having a great time the past month or so passing out Al Irwin's cigars, breaks loth today with the good word that the second annual intercholastic swimming relays at Tech will be an event of March 18.

It is too bad that the 50,000 or more who sat and froze watching the All-Star and New York Giant charity game in New York last Sunday could not have been in the dressing rooom scenes, especially the act that was put on in the quarters of the All-Stars. The Grand Rock gave the boys a riding between halves, which was more or less of a joke, but nevertheless was well worth hearing.

"Well, well," rasped Rock as the bruised and battered vets stumbled in. "What a fine lot of ball players you guys turned out to be. Football coaches, eh? Supposed to be pretty smart, huh. There's 50,000 people out there waiting to see how much you know. Looks like they ain't going to see much."

Bob (Pat) Reagan, assistant coach at Villanova and former line coach at Duquesne, before the coming of Joe Bach, is in town for a day or two and spoke at the Ambridge Boosters' banquet last night. Reagan is as smart a line coach as you will find in the league, any league. Besides, he's a fine fellow. Why, he's one of the few guys I go out with without the wife having to leave a lamp in the window.

West Virginia Wesleyan has been added to Duquesne's football schedule for next year, to take the place of Loyola University of Chicago, which recently decided to abandon its football. Graduate Manager Holohan closed with the Bobcats for a game here Friday night, October 9.

Despite denials, the story carried in yesterday's Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph concerning the dropping or resigning of football coaches at Waynesburg and Westminster still stands. You might win yourself some dough by betting on Beede's leaving Westminster, thought five won't get you 10 on the proposition.

HALL LEADS LAYTON

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—(INS.)—Allen Hall still maintained his lead over Johnny Layton today in their three-cushion billiard match, although Layton won both the afternoon and evening blocks in yesterday's matches. Hall's lead was 200 to 96, with a day to go.

settle their draft dispute with the minors. It has been published that they refused to accept Landis as arbiter and that their action amounted to a cold turn-down of the Commissioner and an indication that he has been shorn of some of his autocratic power.

The club owners explain that there was no turning-down of Landis. They say that the Commissioner himself was the first to point out that this was an internal matter that did not come within his jurisdiction, one that must be settled by the magnates themselves and not by his office. They then refrained from putting it up to him.

Clarence Kummer

ANOTHER PROMINENT TURF figure has followed Harry Payne Whitney and Snapper Garrison to the beyond in the death of Clarence Kummer, one of the greatest jockeys in the game until increasing weight forced him off the saddle three years ago. The winner at one time or another of every important stake except the Kentucky Derby and the Belmont Futurity, Kummer reached the peak of his 12-year career in 1920 as the regular rider of the immortal Man o' War. They formed an even greater combination than Gallant Fox and Earl Sande. Man o' War won 11 consecutive races in the regular season of 1920, with Kummer up in nine of them, and Clarence also was the rider when that great horse defeated Sir Barton in a $75,000 match race at Windsor. Four years later, Kummer rode Ladkin to victory over the champion French horse, Epinard, and Wise Counsellor, in an international race at Aqueduct. Kummer guided Man o' War to five records from one mile to a mile and five-eighths, and his marks of 2:14 1-5 for one and three-eighths miles and 2:40 4-5 for one and five-eighths miles still stand.

LOCAL HOCKEY TEAM ENJOYS BRIEF REST

By CARL W. SHATTO.

The Yellow Jacket purkmen, who are busier than you Christmas shoppers, are back home today for a brief breathing spell before setting out on another invasion of enemy territory. During the past week the Schooley skaters have appeared in London, Detroit, Buffalo and Syracuse, and they are to battle the Indians in Cleveland tomorrow night.

D'Arcy Coulson

A victory over Detroit and a tie with Syracuse were the Jackets' rewards for their extensive touring. They are in an advantageous position in that they can leap into third place by downing the Indians tomorrow.

After the Cleveland engagement, the Pittsburgh puckmen will stage a home stand, playing four straight games at Duquesne Garden. The game with Windsor here next Tuesday will be something of a homecoming celebration for Tex White and Roger Smith, former Pirates recently purchased from Philadelphia.

Gordy Fraser and Duke McCurry still are out of the lineup with a broken hand and a broken rib, respectively, but they both may be able to return to action when the Syracuse stars appear at the Craig street arena for a joust next Saturday night.

Random Shots

The Philadelphia Quakers, formerly the Pittsburgh Pirates, boast the distinction of having signed one of the wealthiest youths ever to take up hockey as a pastime. The new Quaker is Parker Cleaver, son of the millionaire president of the National Breweries, of Ottawa.

Coulson won considerable renown as a defense man in Canadian amateur circles, but left Detroit for the ever lowly "bushes" for he takes the hockey because he likes the game, and not because he needs the pay check.

The Cleveland Indians are having their troubles. Ticket offices have been sizzling and Tuesday and Wednesday games have been re-scheduled for Sunday dispeal in an effort to build up attendance.

The Windsor Bulldogs and the London Tecumsehs were weakest records which National League clubs repulled star performers who had been loaned to the International loop teams.

LONDON GETS STARS

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—(AP.)—The Chicago Blackhawks yesterday loaned Ed Miller and Slew Adams, left wing players, to the London Tecumsehs of the International Hockey League. They will be subject to recall at an hour's notice.

Local Amateur Ice Stars May Go Abroad

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—(AP.)—An American team probably will be sent abroad to compete in the world amateur championship hockey matches to be held at Krynica, Poland, January 8 to 11, Avery Brundage, president of the Amateur Athletic Union, has announced.

A canvass of clubs in Portland, Ore.; San Francisco, Los Angeles, Denver, St. Louis, Chicago, Minneapolis, Detroit, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Boston, Philadelphia and New York, is under way with a view to selecting a representative team of amateur stars.

BADGERS TRIP PENN

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 19.—(AP.)—Holding Pennsylvania to three field goals, the University of Wisconsin successfully dedicated its new $700,000 field house here last night by defeating the Red and Blue by a 25-to-12 score. Nearly 9,000 basketball fans saw the Badgers start slowly, build a scant 9-to-6 advantage at the half, and then coast away to victory in a rough game.

NEW BRIGHTON STAR LOST

NEW BRIGHTON, Pa., Dec. 19.—The enforcement of the scholastic code at New Brighton has deprived the Crimson and Gold of one of its lettermen candidates for the 1931 basketball team. Victor Mayhew, reserve forward last season, and considered a promising star for this season, has been ruled ineligible.

WALTER JOHNSON HERE

Rockne May Quit As Coach to Direct Sports

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 19.—(AP.)—The South Bend Tribune says persistent rumors in South Bend concerned the possibility that Knute K. Rockne would retire from active coaching and confine his work at Notre Dame University to that of athletic director starting next season. The Tribune continued:

"Some followers of the game are of the opinion that one of Rockne's former players, possibly Harry Stuhldreher, 1924 quarterback and successful head coach at Villanova College, would return to take up the head coaching job along with Hunk Anderson, already here as an assistant; also that Jimmy Phelan and Slip Madigan, former Notre Dame men, would be in line for Rockne's job.

"Persons holding this opinion point out that Rockne has several times in the last few weeks expressed doubt as to whether it 'was worth it all' and made other utterances which would indicate that possibly he was begining to tire of the constant glare of publicity and manifold duties that accompany his present position."

KNOCKOUTS MARK MITT SHOWS

Two amateur boxing shows were staged last night, seven bouts at Moose Temple, East Pittsburgh, in an affair in which the gate was turned over to charity, and 12 contests in the Palisades, McKeesport. In both shows knockouts marked the program.

Four of the seven fights at East Pittsburgh show ended before the prescribed limit, the other three bouts being splendid exhibitions. Frank Klaus, former middleweight champion of the world, was the referee, and Harry Votel and John Delehanty were the judges.

Four knockouts featured the show at McKeesport. Twelve bouts, bringing together simon pure mitt slingers in five classes, were staged and practically all of them were real action producers.

SKORICK STOPS LOWE

Dan Skorick, of the Al Sands A. C., Uniontown, scored the quickest kayo of the evening, putting Bob Lowe, of the Bender A. C., Monessen, to sleep after one minute and 10 seconds of fighting. Angelo Emerson, of the Clairton A. C., knocked out Young Conti, of North Braddock, in one round as did Andy Conrad, of the McKeesport A. C., in his bout with Bill McMullen, of Monessen.

PUNCHERS MEET AT MOOSE TONIGHT

By HARRY ECK.

Sports Editor.

With a knockout hitter as the magnet in the main bout, Promoter Apples Meyers puts on his weekly boxing show in the Moose Temple, downtown, tonight.

The over-the-fence belter is Jimmy Kelly, of the North Side, and formerly of Dayton, O., who has lost only one bout since he came around here several months ago and has won all of the others with knockouts. Joe Trippe, Rochester (N. Y.) veteran, defeated him, but only after he had been on the floor for a count of nine and Kelly had put his left hand on the fruit sending him there. Kelly being a southpaw, his left duke is the one with which he does the damage. He stopped Allen Beatty with it, his last time out, at the Moose, two weeks ago.

Jimmy Kelly

BOTH GOOD HITTERS

Kelly's opponent tonight is Eddie Brannon, Mike Ray's dusky junior-welterweight, of the Hill. Eddie is a tough hitter himself and has been in there with Joey Goodman and other good ones. It shapes up as quite a scrap for action, with a chance for a knockout either way.

Dan Gallagher, of the West End, and Fran't Novak, of the North Side, heavyweight rivals, meet a second time in the semi-final, with Novak out to even up for an adverse decision in their first clash. Terry Waner, of the North Side, boxes Sammy Paris, of the Hill, in the second bout, also a return event, and Joe Orsini, of Clairton, and Frankie Portland, of Ambridge, are in the opener, scheduled for 8:30.

Between Rounds

An announcement pre-liminary card has been arranged for the Duke McGuigan-Vince Dundee choice at Motor Square Garden, Cleveland, on Christmas eve. The eight other appearance here have been in main bouts, will box Billy Hart, Pittsburg Negro welterweight, of Homewood, in the eight-round semi-final. Jimmy Braddock, now under the management of Frank Klaus, former middleweight champion, will meet Jimmy Grady, of Wheeling, in the second bout, and Angelo Vergamini, of Sharpsburg, is to box Don Fraser, of the Hill, for the opener.

MARKET TONE FIRM, PACE SLACKENS

Profit-Taking Appears And List Wavers Some During Early Trading

Trading slowed up to a leisurely pace, and the firm tone of prices was maintained, particularly in rail securities, both stocks and bonds. The recent state of nerves, with its convulsions and hallucinations, seemed a thing of the past.

There was some profit-taking in the stock market, and price trends wavered a little in the morning. Pivotal industrials moved rather narrowly. Auburn Auto again moved widely, but yesterday's talk of a technical corner appeared to have been exaggerated.

The more confident attitude toward the rail securities appeared to be based upon little if anything tangibly new in the situation, but rather a feeling that pessimism over low rate of rail earnings had been overdone, in view of the fact that the carriers' physical equipment is in the best shape in its history, and operating economies are progressing, also, there is a growing opinion that the eastern carriers are ironing out their disagreements over consolidation. Conferences of rail chiefs are expected to be resumed next week.

A little firmer tone in silver was an encouraging development in commodities. Also, export copper was said to be selling better since the price was brought down to a 10-cent basis.

The monthly business review of the Irving Trust Company agreed with several similar surveys that the turn must be near.

Credit conditions were easy. Call loans renewed at 2 per cent, but were offered outside at 1½. The further reduction of $91,000,000 in brokers' loans was about as expected.

Food Prices Show November Decline

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—Pork chops were 13 per cent cheaper November 15 than on October 15 and the average of all foods showed a decrease of about 2 per cent.

General Railway Signal Reports Favorable Last Half.

Normally, the last six months is the best for earnings of General Railway Signal, and indications are that 1930 will be no exception. The company has been operating five days a week, and results in the last few months have been highly satisfactory, according to those close to the management. Unfilled orders at the beginning of next year will be the largest in the history of the company, so that prospects for at least the first half are considered favorable.

Endicott-Johnson Corporation, second largest shoe manufacturer in the country, experienced an increase in orders beginning about the middle of October, and improvement has been fairly well maintained to date. Some business is being booked for spring delivery, but most orders are for immediate shipment, indicating continuance of hand-to-mouth buying for current needs. Company's factories are operating on an average of about 75 per cent of capacity, a rate in effect some weeks. Like International Shoe Company, which has just announced a general reduction of 5 to 35 cents a pair in its various types of shoes, Endicott-Johnson has made several price revisions this year.

Buying of Blaw-Knox has been persistent from the East, practically all the purchases on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange yesterday coming from that source. The accumulation has been going on for the past two months, with the buying credited to interests who have made a study of the affairs of the company, and appreciate the fact that the earnings in 1930 will exceed those of the previous year, an unusual occurrence these times. Merger reports continue to be heard in connection with the buying.

There is a disposition in both investment and speculative quarters just now toward the modification of views expressed recently relative to the weakness that has been evident in the bond market. Acute weakness in the investment market had been subjected to most bearish interpretations for the reason that in the past almost invariably a turn out of a bear market and a business depression has been signalized by sustained strength in bonds. Presently, however, it is argued that the condition of the bond market, that is the recent heavy selling, has resulted very largely from the activities of the banks, who have been selling such securities in order to place themselves in a most liquid position to cope with such difficulties as might arise.

Those in touch with the bond situation are of the opinion that the new issue market will develop a little more life with the turn of the year. New flotations in the last few months have been exceedingly light for the reason that under the circumstances prevailing prospective borrowers and their banking affiliations have realized the futility of undertaking to put out new bonds. But several good sized pieces of new business in that direction are reported to be simmering on the back of the stove. It is understood that certain of the larger public utilities are waiting a clearing of the skies in order to put through new financing which they have been contemplating.

Auburn was not the only stock in which the bears, now "fat prosperous and overconfident," as one observer describes them, found the trap sprung on them yesterday. Shorts encountered considerable difficulty in seeking to extricate themselves from a scattering of other stocks, which have been much in the speculative limelight of late as much because of their small capitalizations and limited floating supplies as for any other reason. The short interest in Case Threshing Machine fared little better than its counterpart in Auburn, Case soaring for a gain of some 10 points at the top levels. Worthington Pump was another trying spot for the market's bruins, that issue adding almost 5 points to its Wednesday dash of about 9 points.

How One Man Has Just Won Very Big Job

By B. C. FORBES

A $100,000,000 enterprise yesterday announced that it had picked a new president.

How does a man, starting work at $2.50 a week, win his way to such a job, a job entailing the handling of tens of thousands of workers and of hundreds of millions of dollars of business a year?

B. C. Forbes

This particular story is unusually worth telling because it carries wonderful suggestions for every young fellow ambitious to rise—as well as for executives.

A TWENTY-ONE-YEAR-OLD Indiana youth, whose ambition was to "build things," left his small native community with $35 in his pocket, to find a job. Conditions were bad, unemployment was widespread, and no job could be landed. The superintendent of a large construction job allowed the youth to trail along carrying a rod and level and otherwise assisting him for a couple of weeks. Then he offered him $2.50 a week as an office boy. By bringing in a cot and sleeping in the office building, and eating 10-cent meals, he contrived to live on his pay.

At every opportunity he donned rubber boots, assisted in driving piles and in the excavation work. The badly-fitting boots, however, caused an abrasion, blood poisoning set in, and he was sent to a hospital among down-and-out ward patients.

ONE OF THE contractors, learning of what he had gone through, gave him a start of $6 a week.

WITHIN ONE YEAR from his start as office boy, he was made general foreman with some 250 men under him.

THE JOB FINISHED, he struck out for the Northwest. Sitting in a Seattle hotel one wet, miserable day, he got chatting with another young man, who turned out to be Stanley Dollar, who got his father, the famous lumber and steamship king, to introduce the likeable young fellow to a contractor. The latter was not interested—until the job-seeker offered to work for nothing. Within a week he was engaged at $125 a month.

Later Stanley Dollar showed him an advertisement for a superintendent for the construction of a large power station, and accustomed to handle big things himself, young Stanley urged his friend to go after the position. He did, and landed it.

He found himself confronted with a man-sized task, some technical phases of which were Greek to him. He spent his nights, however, studying and mastering the plans. Also, he discovered that the job was far behind schedule because of lack of teamplay. Here he demonstrated extraordinary aptitude for inspiring workmen to cooperate enthusiastically with him in expediting operations. And the contract was finished on time.

THE EASTERN heads of the contracting concern had never seen their dynamic young superintendent, but they heard enough about him to send him to tackle a much bigger construction problem. Again he made good.

And when only 31, he was called to headquarters in Boston to take full charge of all the construction work in the field. In short order, he was made a partner and now he becomes president.

Mr. Stone says of him:

"George Muhlfeld can establish closer and warmer relationships with people, including workers, than any man I have ever known. He leads and guides teams of workers in a way that creates a happy spirit in them and makes them anxious to work their heads off for him. He can take hold of any job, big or little, and quickly develop a smooth-working, enthusiastic organization. He never plays favorites. He is the friend of all, open, frank, sympathetic.

"He seems to thrive on difficulties. The harder the task, the closer Muhlfeld sticks to it until he puts it over."

MR. MUHLFELD once said to me:

"Charles M. Schwab quotes Andrew Carnegie as having said that you couldn't force a man very far or very fast up a ladder unless he was willing to do some climbing himself. You can't FORCE workers to give you of their best.

"Our business is scattered all over the country, so it is doubly important to have men who will work conscientiously when your back is turned. To get results, I put confidence in them and also give them responsibilities."

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

Influence of New Rail Mill Watched

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

RAILROAD AND STEEL men are watching for the first effects of the entrance of the National Steel Company into the rail field. The company's new mill will be ready for operation on December 29. At present the rolling of this product is confined to a few of the largest producers. These are Bethlehem in the eastern territory, Carnegie Steel in the Pittsburgh district, Illinois and Inland in the Chicago district. While these companies engage in sharp struggles for rail business, competition has never been as keen as in the other products which are also made by a large number of smaller companies.

Rail prices have not been subject to wide fluctuations in price as have other types of steel. For the past seven years the published price has been held at $43 a ton. During this period the prices of bars, plates and shapes have fluctuated over a range of $9 a ton.

Other Prices Depressed

THE RAILROADS usually enter the market for a year's supply of rails in December. It would be natural for them to attempt to get price concessions at a time when quotations on nearly all other types of steel are at depressed levels. While the rail makers have shown a high degree of co-operation in maintaining prices, the entrance of a new factor into the rail market may be a slightly disturbing influence.

The leading railroad systems are in the habit of dividing their rail requirements between the producers. National has no established outlets for rails. It is entering an entirely new field with a product it has never made in the past. The company enjoys exceptionally low costs due to the fact that its steel making facilities are modern, its operations in the Weirton district are highly concentrated and fully integrated and it has the advantage of river transportation.

Lower Quotation Feared

NATURALLY THE ENTRANCE of such a producer into the rail field has awakened fears that prices, already endangered by declines in other products, may be disturbed. National's new mill is designed to produce structural steel as well as rails so that it will not be necessary for the company to book the entire output in rails in order to get satisfactory operations.

National Steel was recently formed by the merger of Weirton Steel, Great Lakes Steel and the blast furnaces and ore properties of the M. A. Hanna Company. The merger gave Weirton the advantage of increased ore reserves as well as production in the Detroit district where one of the steel industry's biggest markets has been developed.

Finishing Capacity Increased

THE NEW RAIL and structural steel mill will give National Steel further diversification of finishing capacity. The policy of the company has been to develop rolling mill facilities in excess of steel making capacity and in combinations which are not subject to the same economic influences. This frees the company from dependence on any single industry and permits it to take advantage of active demands for certain types of steel when others are suffering from depression. In many periods of general business dullness, rails have enjoyed brisk markets. A similar situation has been found in tin plate in which the company has developed production in the past.

European Copper Demand Improving

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—Copper metal buying is good on foreign account and fair on domestic. Foreign sales yesterday were increased by late cables to 6,250,000 pounds, the best business in many weeks. Export sales this morning came to 3,500,000 pounds. Domestic inquiry also is somewhat more active with sales here and abroad more than enough to take care of current custom intake.

AMBRIDGE HIGH GRIDDERS DINED

Ambridge High School's undefeated, untied and unscored on football team, champion of the Beaver Valley district, was honored by the Ambridge Boosters' Association at a testimonial banquet in the Junior High School last night. A crowd of more than 300 attended.

Bob Waddell, head coach at Carnegie Tech, had the folks in the isles, figuratively, with a rousing talk. Bob (Pat) Reagan, assistant varsity coach at Villanova; A. C. Edgecomb, athletic director at Geneva College, and C. Herman Gross, superintendent of schools, also gave talks.

Included among the guests were Franklin Hood and Capt.-elect Eddie Hirschberg, of Pitt; Tank Highberger and Hooks Sample, of Carnegie Tech, and Earl Ewing, star halfback, and Sam Cooper, tackle, of Geneva. Jess Carver, of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, served as toastmaster.

Members of the team were presented gold footballs in recognition of their fine play during the season. Coach Rubenstein was the recipient of a silver coffee service and Assistant Coach Doak was given a purse of gold.

Following the affair, the invited guests were royally entertained by Paddy Carr and the members of the committee at the Elks Club.

CROTAR, KLEIN COUNTY STARS

will be out to continue its winning streak by engaging the South Side Falcons at Sharpsburg. Two games are carded in the Catholic Lyceum League, St. John playing at St. Casimir and St. Joseph at St. Wendelin.

The Irene Kaufmann Settlement House will present its best attraction of the season tonight when Coach Chick Davies brings his Duquesne University varsity squad to the Center avenue court for a pre-season contest. Homewood Presbyterian will clash with the I. K. S. Reserves in the preliminary game.

MILES IN SECOND PLACE

The J. J. Miles took second place in the County League by upsetting the Duquesne Lafayettes 38-22, in their battle last night.

Two games in the West Penn circuit saw the Ray Schneiders tripping the Knickers, 26 to 22, with Gil Hunter playing a star role, and North Side Community toppling North Side Buicks, 42-21.

I. K. S. won from Homewood Presbyterian, 32-26, in their Wagner Institutional League game, while Manchester Community copped from De Sales, 26-18, in the Greater Pittsburgh League.

Falcons No. 69 defeated the J. J. Briskeys, 35-20, in the junior loop. Y. M. H. A. won from Kingsley House, 50-17; Mt. Washington Triangles beat McDonald Radios, 41-19; Cayton Club set down North Avenue, 39-23, and Y. M. H. A. Reserves whipped Docson, 50-15, in independent contests.

GRIMM STATUS DRAWS LOCAL INTEREST

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Pirate fans are looking on with a lively interest at Rogers Hornsby's first-base show in Chicago. The circus involves the destinies of two of the leading gateway fanatics of the National League, Charles (Gallic Curse) Grimm and Jim Bottomley.

Lefty Grimm

The coloratura banjoist, a heavy favorite among Cub followers, apparently doesn't sit so well with the new pilot of the Bears. Lefty was captain of the team under Joe McCarthy and the former Pirate star was a very loyal subject of Marse Joe.

Hornsby, on the other hand, had long associations with Sunny Jim, who also is a deservedly popular figure in baseball, yet a star whose radiance was dimmed because he slipped in World Series play.

GRIMM DEFENSE MASTER

If it were my ball nine, I think I would prefer to have Grimm at first in preference to Bottomley. Sunny Jim has proved himself a better hitter than his rival left-hander, but Lefty is far in front of Jim as a fielder. Neither is a first-class baserunner, yet both are hustlers of the aggressive type.

Sunny Jim is weak on the double play which necessitates a fast throw in front of the runner; Grimm, perhaps, is the best in baseball on the same action, although this point may be disputed by Gus Suhr's admirers. The 'Frisco Dutchman, even though he must turn to throw with his right-hand, is a master of this difficult piece of fielding.

BOTH YOUNG MEN

Grimm excels Bottomley in fielding batted balls and his wondrous pickups of all sorts of bad throws is the talk of the players. In a final reckoning, Lefty should be the better influence on the stability of an infield, the other three players having an assurance that Charles will come up with the ball if he can get either of his big hands on the rocket.

A feeling has gone abroad to the effect that Bottomley is to be desired over Grimm because of a difference in their ages, but in the light of facts this contention falls by the wayside. Grimm, 31 last August, is about six months older than Sunny Jim. Lefty was just out of knee breeches when he became a professional.

Many of the Dunlevy players must work Sunday with the Christmas rush. Morgan is also scheduled to meet Grandy's team up the river on Christmas Day in a West Penn cup game.

Managers Mangus and Succop should note that the game at Curry will be staged Sunday with a 3 p. m. kickoff.

Three games will be played in the Central League tomorrow afternoon. The big battle of the day will be staged at Leslie Park when the league-leading Clan Douglas team hooks up with the Pittsburgh Celtics. Pierpoint and Switch meet at Swissvale. The third game finds the Pittsburgh Rovers at Crafton.

The Pittsburgh Central League held a meeting last evening and Willie Gifford was suspended until January 1 for misconduct in the Union Switch game. Kirsopp, of the Rovers, who was ordered out of the Mesta game last Sunday, was censored by the league. This was Kirsopp's first offense.

MAJESTICS SET FOR MYSTIC BATTLE

By TOM BIRKS.

West View Park, Sunday afternoon, will find the Majestic aggregation meeting the Ambridge Mystics in the final game of the independent gridiron conference.

The Big Green machine, with its galaxy of stars, must win or tie the game to cop the Honus Wagner trophy.

The Black and White aggregation, headed by Burgess P. J. Caul, is expected to give the Green team all the fight it is looking for. Ambridge probably has the biggest line in the conference, and, led by Zarnoki, has a splendid backfield.

Art Rooney is taking no chance on failing to land the title. The team was sent through two hard practice sessions yesterday. All of the players came out of the Tube City game in good shape.

Although Levey will not play, Art Rooney has demonstrated that in Glenn, Kelsh, Vaughan, Rooney and Sweeney he is missed little.

The game will be called at 2:30, and Chris McCormick is looking for a record crowd.

BOUT CALLED OFF

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—Illness of King Levinsky has forced a cancellation of the bout scheduled with Jimmy Braddock on December 26.

Highberger, Tech Grid Veteran, Under Knife

John (Tank) Highberger, star tackle at Carnegie Tech for the past three years, will undergo an operation for the removal of his appendix in Presbyterian Hospital. Highberger entered the hospital this morning. The operation was scheduled for this afternoon.

The big lineman was stricken during the middle of the season and was confined to the hospital for three days for observation. His condition improved and the operation was postponed until after the close of the season.

Jim Enraged When Connie Calls Off Marriage

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

On the eve of her marriage to handsome Jim Tracey, vivacious Connie Calvert, rich society girl, receives a letter which causes her to leave her palatial home in Connecticut on a mysterious automobile drive to New York. Jim sees her. Connie stops at a cheap restaurant on the West Side and waits for someone. The letter threatens to expose Connie. A man approaches Connie and introduces himself as Duke Garson. He tells Connie her late father was married twice and that she has a half-sister, Kitty, living in poverty among gangsters. Connie asks to meet her. When she does, Kitty tries to blackmail her. Kitty and Garson tell Connie that they want $100,000 from her. She says she will not give it. Later Connie consents. Kitty agrees to wait for the money until after the wedding. Connie tells Kitty that she wants to be a real sister to her, inviting her to go to the Calvert home. Kitty declines the invitation. Connie goes to see Jim and explain the circumstances. When Jim objects to her interest in Kitty, Connie breaks her engagement.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XIII.

It seemed like a dream to Connie—that all of her wedding plans could be broken, destroyed . . . by mere words . . . Yet she knew, now, that tomorrow's wedding would never take place . . .

"You don't know what you're saying! You're out of your head, Connie . . . of course, we're going to be married tomorrow—"

Against her will, he got his arms around her and crushed her to his chest, covered her face with kisses, but there was no power in him now to stir her, no electric tingle. She struggled free from his embrace.

Connie's Mind Set

"I don't feel like I've betrayed you—letting you down at the last minute. It's a favor I'm doing you, really. You wouldn't find happiness with me, we're too different."

"The excitement has been too much for you, dear. Let me take you home to your mother—you don't realize what you're saying."

"No use; it's all off, Jim."

"But the wedding presents!" he cried, driven deperately to seizing upon a trivality. "And what will people say? They expect us to get married at noon—"

"We can send the presents back, Jim. The first thing in the morning we'll notify everybody by telephone that the wedding's off. We can lie a little—we'll say I've been taken ill and postponed the wedding indefinitely. Oh, Jim, it's far better this way than to chain ourselves to lifelong unhappiness. We still have time to stop it. Don't—don't feel so badly, dear. You'll thank me some day—"

His face was ghostly white. She thought he was about to break into tears, and he did. Tears of rage and balked desires swam in his eyes and streamed down his cheeks.

"For a damn, low-flung girl off Tenth avenue you'd throw me down!" he declared, in a shaking voice. "You take me and make a monkey of me—push me out on quicksands and let me sink—"

"Hush—hush—you don't know what you're saying!"

"If a man did a girl like this she could sue him for breach of promise if he had anything—" Jim Tracy cried bitterly. "What have I done to change you? I never dreamed anything would happen like this—"

Connie looked at him with discerning eyes. Before her was no trace of staunch character that a wife might lean upon. She found herself pitying him.

Jim Acts Childish

"You'll get over it," she said, wisely. "Right now you feel terribly disappointed—but, actually, I don't think you love me at all. I like you, Jim—but I think we both took love too much for granted. We can at least be friends, always."

He struggled to retain his composure. "I believe you mean that!"

"But I won't release you!"

She almost smiled at his childishness, but had no heart to hurt him.

"Don't be foolish, Jim. I've been sleeping, but now I'm awake. And I'm not going to be driven into a marriage because of any silly pride in refusing to call it off. And it doesn't mean we have to give each other up. We'll stay friends. Be a good sport, Jim. You wouldn't want me to marry you if I decided at the last minute I didn't love you."

"It's not fair, and you know it isn't," he protested.

"All right—have it your own way. It's not fair and I'm acting like a beast, but we're not going to be married tomorrow."

"You'll change your mind in the morning," he predicted, miserably. "I can't believe my own ears when you talk this way—"

"I don't change my mind that easily, Jim, dear," she smiled at him. "Come on, boy, buck up and take it all like a man. Drop over to the house tomorrow afternoon, if you like, and we'll have a talk. I know you're all shot over this, and so am I, but it's the best way."

End of Romance

"I refuse to look upon this as final," he stated. "It's merely a postponement if you stick to your crazy decision. If it's a matter of money that you want your sister to have, I agree to settle with her on some reasonable terms if you insist."

"It's not money; it's what lies behind money, Jim. Now go home. Kiss me goodnight and goodby, and don't worry about it any more. You must be sensible."

She leaned forward and kissed him. This, she knew, was the end of their romance. There was much that was lovable in Jim Tracy, but an awakened wisdom told her that he had a streak of weakness and meanness that would make life unbearable for his wife. Thank God she had found it out in time! Yet, she still felt the same old fondness for him, but in a diminished degree. What he had venerated in her, she realized, was not her heart, but her money. And even for this she could forgive him. Looking back, she could scarcely believe that she had even been so self-deceived that she really loved Jim Tracy.

Back home, she slipped into the house and waited for dawn. Without undressing, she sat in a deep, comfortable chair in her own bedroom, and gradually a little troubled sleep closed her eyes.

DAILY TRUE STORY — 'That's Nice!'

This made Mrs. Garrison nervous and unhappy. She wanted Virgie to approve of young Mr. Ferdinand Roth, and she knew well enough that Virgie now detested him even more than when they started on the little journey.

"I haven't the nerve to tell you," she answered. Her mother gasped and shot a look at Virgie, half warning, half pleading. Mrs. Garrison very much wanted Virgie to marry Ferdy. Ferdy had plenty of "what it takes," to quote the best-read columnist, and a solid place in society.

Ferdy also had a Number 12 neck, a chin like a rabbit and wore youth's size clothes.

"How far does it get you to know everyone in the blue book and half of those in the Almanach de Gotha?" Virgie sputtered. She banged something with a wrench, closed the hood and got back at the wheel.

"Ha, that's the trick. If the motor doesn't work, sock it with a monkey wrench," Virgie cried and by way of emphasis she nudged Ferdy in the side with her elbow.

"Unnngh!" wheezed Ferdy.

Virgie giggled. His side felt like corn mush to her sturdy elbow. She must remember not to do that again or she might jab her elbow quite through him.

The car rattled along around a curve and picked up.

Stops Again

The car had reached down grade and started up, but it stopped. Virgie applied the brake.

"The car has stopped," Ferdy informed her.

"You amaze me, Ferdy — among other emotions."

Mrs. Garrison inwardly groaned. Virgie was so like her father—full of wit and sarcasm and a bit too outspoken.

There was a great low cement factory building. It was the assembling station in that part of the country for a well-known truck. Virgie released the brake and at the same time turned to Ferdy.

"There'll be no need for you to tell me we are going backwards, I shall know it," she warned.

The car stopped and Virgie managed to choke the comeback to that one for her mother's sake. She got out and walked over to the factory yard. Someone was under a shining new truck.

"Mister," Virgie called at the man's feet and legs, for she couldn't see his face, "do you know anything about cars?"

"Mister, pick up your marbles, you win. Come out and help me. What I meant was that——"

Virgie stopped speaking, for the man had pushed himself out on the little wheeled platform, and he sat up. Virgie was staring into the face of a seeming young Adonis. Tawny, wavy hair, cheerful blue eyes and a chin like a collar advertisement.

"Sorry—didn't mean to be quite so pert, miss——"

"I had it coming. I wanted to know if an expert on trucks could help out on an antiquated passenger car."

Accepts Offer

He lifted the hood.

"These cars have good motors—if taken care of. This has been neglected. If you'll wait I can fix it in a jiffy, temporarily. I'll get a little gadet."

He went into the building and Virgie turned to her mother, quite regardless of Ferdy.

"Oh, mamma, buy me that!" she said.

"Quite fortunate," Mrs. Garrison said, primly. "Tip him a dollar."

This last was to remind Virgie that the young man was just a greasy mechanic.

"Tip him nothing. He isn't the tipping sort. I'm going to see what ails the motor," and Virgie darted through the big door before her mother could stop her. The young man was coming back with a bit of copper wire and a new spark plug.

"Oh—er—I wanted to ask your advice," Virgie said, stopping him. "You said the motor was good but neglected. If the motor is fixed up and the car repainted, would it go another season?"

"Sure would, miss."

"Would you fix it up for me in your spare time? I live over at Willowdale, here—"

Virgie wrote the address and telephone number on her card.

"Please phone me when you can come I'll be glad to pay whatever is right. I don't trust garage men and I can't afford a new car. Father won't let me drive his. I would be so grateful."

The young man looked at the card and then at Virgie.

"Try and stop me, Miss Garrison. How about tomorrow afternoon—that's Saturday and I quit work at noon—all right?"

"Lovely."

After they reached home and Ferdy had gone in his own car, brought by his chauffeur, Mrs. Garrison had a long talk with Virgie.

The general trend and result, without repeating the dialogue, can be summed up by Virgie's closing remark:

"Sorry, beloved Moms, but Ferdy is out—meaning that he won't be putting on my wedding ring when the marriage chimes ring for me."

Saturday noon the young mechanic, in the sportiest little car Virgie had seen, arrived. He wore nice clothes. He remarked that he ought to introduce himself. His name, he informed Virgie, was Dwight Hawley. He extracted a clean suit, overalls and jumper, stepped into them and went to work on the car.

Mrs. Garrison looked through the telephone book, tried to think where she had heard that name, and called up Mrs. Snodgrass, because Mrs. Snoderass knew more than an encyclopedia, Mrs. Snodgrass began to give Mrs. Garrison an earful.

At 4 o'clock, despite the fact that Virgie was ever at his elbow, young Mr. Dwight Hawley had the motor running "as smooth as oil and sweet as honey," he said.

Virgie asked him to come in and have tea. She promised a nice thick club sandwich instead of silly wafers, and one of father's private highballs if he desired.

He desired.

When he left he said, "At 2, then, Miss Garrison?"

"And if you don't come, I'll come after you," she answered.

Mother Satisfied

He departed. She turned to her mother.

"Shoot, Moms—give me plain, you-know-what, but you might as well get it all at once. I'm in love with him. He's going to take me out tomorrow. I'm going to marry him if I have any talents in that line at all. Now throw fits about common mechanics, dearest. Only remember, I'm just going to marry him!"

"He's nice — and he's the young brother of John Hawley, who manufacturers those what-do-you-call-'em trucks, and he really is much nicer than Ferdy, Mrs. Snodgrass told me all about him, darling, so——"

"Listen," Virgie said. "I'd marry him if he were only an assistant to an assistant mechanic—if he'd have me."

"Oh, he's wild about you already. He'll have you," Mrs. Garrison said.

Let Us Send a Man to Explain Our Proposition

"Ten thousand Texans are reported to have paid $500,000 for fake insurance policies against marriage and children."

Agent—Good morning. I represent Rock of Ages Insurance Company. We heard you were going around with Lizzie Smith.

Prospect—Well, Lizzie and I are good friends.

Agent—It has come to us from a reliable source that you and Lizzie are more than friends—in fact, we understand you are practically engaged.

Prospect—Any confirmation will have to come from Lizzie. I am very fond of her, and all that. I would be very happy if . . . .

Agent—Hold on a minute. Do you realize that 45 per cent of all marriages land in divorce courts within 18 months?

Prospect—That is a matter . . . .

Agent—My dear man, do you know that 76 per cent of all divorced men pay an average alimony of $66.33 a month?

Prospect—I had never given the matter a thought.

Agent—Furthermore, are you sure that you really know Lizzy Smith? Do you appreciate the expectancy, for a man of your age, is at least 241 tiffs, 342 sulks and seven knockdown and dragouts in the first year?

Prospect—I can't believe . . . .

Agent—My dear fellow, we have the figures. Now I can sell you a complete coverage against collision, partial consent, weakening sales resistance, license application and legal ceremony for (Pardon, while I look at the book) only $108.83.

Prospect—But I am eager, anxious to get married! I love the girl. I wanna home—do you think I can live this way? This isn't living at all! I want a home! A family! Love! Companionship!

Agent—Just a minute, PLEASE. Now what is your correct age. . . . I can sell you a policy against bachelorhood . . . do you realize that 55 per cent of all marriages, despite comic strips, are successful—that 76 per cent of all single men suffer from stomach trouble, neurasthenia, introspection. . . .?

A New Clean-Up Plan

With Plenty of Workers Available, Now Is Opportune Time to Improve Pittsburgh's Appearance.

John Ihlder, of the Pittsburgh Housing Association, has a plan for brightening up the city and at the same time providing work for the idle—a plan of which President Hoover's Emergency Committee for Employment thinks so well that it is giving it widespread publicity.

Mr. Ihlder proposes that property owners be required to bring their houses up to the legal standards of safety and sanitation. Vigorous enforcement of the housing laws will necessitate, he says, the demolition or reconditioning of many unsightly edifices, ramshackle affairs, firetraps and insanitary.

If the laws are ever to be enforced to the full, there is not likely to be a more opportune time than the present. For plenty of workers are available and building materials are low in price.

At the same time idle men might be employed in cleaning streets and alleys, hillsides and vacant lots, yards and houses. Brightening up the city would increase property values and improve morale.

In Bogota, capital of Colombia, during the last year, all owners of shabby houses were required to paint them, that the city might present an attractive appearance for the Simon Bolivar centennial. The scheme is reported to have had a beneficial economic effect.

No Change in County Tax

The Commissioners Seem to Have Made a Sincere Attempt to Be Economical.

It would have been a pleasure to be able to report that the County Commissioners, following the example of the city and in acceptance of Commissioner McGovern's proposal, had reduced the tax rate. But it was not to be. The levy will be the same next year as it was this year.

The Commissioners are entitled to credit for cutting expenses. They seem to have made an honest effort to be economical. The appropriations called for by the budget as originally submitted amounted to $840,054 less than last year's appropriations, and the Commissioners lopped off $555,820 additional.

Higher bond interest payments and the $600,000 emergency fund for unemployment relief made it necessary, however, it is stated, to fix the tax rate at the same figure that was paid this year.

Some of the proposed appropriations that the Commissioners refused were for laudable things. But it must be recognized that the way to cut is to cut.

It's Safe

The Bureau of Water reports that a peculiar taste in the water used by Pittsburghers is due to deposits of vegetable matter in the Allegheny River.

This is a reminder that the rivers around Pittsburgh are nothing but open sewers. The city and neighboring boroughs discharge their sewage untreated into the Allegheny, Monongahela and Ohio—a deplorable thing.

It is to be hoped that in the not distant future we will dispose of such waste matter in modern sewage disposal plants instead of letting it contaminate our streams.

In the meantime it is reassuring to know that, whatever the situation may be in other towns which draw their water supply from the rivers, Pittsburgh's water is safe. Thanks to our filtration system, it can be drunk without fear that it may produce disease. Indeed there are few cities which have more wholesome water.

State Parks

There Are Difficulties in the Way of Establishing Them Near the Large Cities.

There seems to have been confusion of terms in the discussion of state parks by the recreation committee of the Chamber of Commerce Monday. Some of the speakers apparently had the state forests in mind in talking of parks.

The criticism of the state's policy in establishing parks in the mountainous region remote from the large cities was based on misunderstanding. The state forests have been established in the mountains because the mountain land is good for nothing but raising trees and can be obtained for a few dollars an acre.

The state forests were created primarily to restore our depleted timber supply and protect the watersheds, and only secondarily for recreation purposes.

The state parks at present consist of several comparatively small tracts of land notable for historic or scenic reasons. The Cook Forest is the best known state park in Western Pennsylvania.

There are difficulties in the way of creating state parks near the large cities, as proposed by E. T. Whiter. If the Chamber feels we should have one nearer Pittsburgh than the Cook Forest, it might promote Thomas Liggett's plan to turn McConnell's Mills, beautiful Slippery Rock Creek resort, into a state park.

Game Fish Protection

Anglers Will Find Encouragement In the Earnestness Shown at Recent Washington Conference.

At the invitation of the United States Bureau of Fisheries representatives of Pennsylvania's anglers and conservationists conferred in Washington last week with similar delegates from West Virginia, Maryland and Virginia.

Fishermen have reason to be pleased with the conference. The earnestness displayed by the delegates in suggesting plans for combatting the stream pollution evil, and the assurances given of co-operation between the states, were decidedly encouraging.

President Hoover, an ardent angler himself, and also interested because of the commercial value of game fish as a vacation resort attraction, has given some study to the subject and his ideas were quoted at the conference.

Royal Tight-Rope Walker

He May End Up In Hollywood.

ALFONSO, KING OF SPAIN (AT THIS WRITING).

He has arranged, however, to leave Spain quickly if he slips. Probably he will go to England, where his wife was born, or perhaps to Florida, where he owns a home.

If he comes here he would also visit California, which, like Florida, once belonged to his ancestors and where he could make a living in the movies. Being a good king, he is a good actor. Moreover, he has been bombed or shot at eight times since boyhood and might find Hollywood more restful than Madrid.

Spain, which tried unsuccessfully years ago to be a republic, has been fairly happy under Alfonso. He kept his country out of the war, advertised its attractions, boomed the tourist traffic, did other useful things. His worst mistake was in permitting himself to go to war with the Riffs in Morocco. They made mincemeat out of his soldiers and monkeys out of his generals. They also cost Spain millions of pesetas, which Spain could not afford.

The world-wide business slump has affected Spain since, and, as always happens in a depression, the cry has gone up for a change of government. That explains the latest Spanish crisis as well as anything else.

Spain may play with a republic as she has played with a dictatorship. Getting rid of Alfonso, however, will not help much. In fact, in a country where the majority of people can neither read nor write nothing will help but education, and that takes time.

Four per cent of our own adults are illiterate and at least 20 per cent are barely educated. It is these that cause most of our troubles.

Spain will have many more revolutions until each child is educated. Meanwhile an intelligent and able king is probably better than a political and therefore a partisan president.

Funny! For eleven months of the year we may laugh satirically, at love, life and the world; but, just about NOW, something gets into the dullest imagination, the bitterest heart or the weariest pulse, quickens its tempo and stirs it to a joyous rhythm. That's the "Christmas Spirit!"

UNIVERSAL GRAVITATION

By Archibald Henderson

The great tour de force, embodied in Newton's immortal work, "Naturalis Philosophiae Principia Mathematica," is probably the greatest intellectual achievement attributable to a single brain. He himself preferred the title "De Motu Corporum Libri Duo—Two Books on the Motion of Bodies." But the former title was finally chosen because, as he naively said, "'twill help the sale of the book." Even the great Newton was not adverse to modern commercial methods.

Newton, be it remembered, was not a great astronomical observer. He was a great student of the mechanism of the telescope concerning which he made important inventions. But he was not interested in accumulating, personally, new astronomical data. He was content with utilizing the data already accumulated by Galileo and Kepler. He employed these data to serve as clues for, as well as to verify, the general principles which he formulated.

Newton mastered the knowledge regarding the movements of the heavenly bodies, of mechanics and physics, down to his own time. His principal object was to take these isolated principles and discoveries, relate them, and by their use to make a coherent, organic theory of the mechanism of the physical world.

Newton was not the first person in history, by any means, to conceive of gravitation as a universal force operating throughout all space. Copernicus had suggested this notion as applicable to the heavenly bodies. Kepler conceived of the sun as a great attractive force governing planetary movements in the solar system; and even suggested that this attractive force varied inversely as the square of the distance, although later abandoning the idea.

Newton made use of the three classic laws of Kepler: the planets revolve in elliptical orbits; an imaginary line from the sun, as focus, to any planet, sweeps out equal areas in equal times; and the squares of the times of the periodical revolutions of the planets are proportional to the cubes of their mean distances from the sun.

With these laws, he combined Galileo's discoveries regarding acceleration. The law of inertia, the first law, is that a body once in motion will continue in motion in a straight line unless acted on by other forces. The second law is that the result of applied force, in the phenomenon above described, is a change of motion, called acceleration, which takes effect in the direction of the applied force.

Newton added the corollary that if a body starts out with an inertial speed in a straight line and is then acted upon by a central force, the result will be to change constantly the direction of the force. It was the use of this corollary which Newton recognized intuitively to be at work in controlling the motions of the planets and making them move, each in its particular orbit.

The principle devised by Newton to account for the mutual attraction of bodies was that action and reaction are equal, and opposite in direction. It followed that mass times acceleration is a constant; and this principle proved to be exceedingly fruitful of results. By studying the various influences of the different planets upon each other, in pairs, and employing the principles mentioned above, Newton was able to give a complete description and explanation of the movement of the heavenly bodies.

Adam Smith, who was dumfounded by Newton's amazing achievement in calculating the mass and specific gravity of the sun, as well as of all the planets that had satellites, pronounced it to be "above the reach of human reason and experience."

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

I'm thinking so often of my mother these days. Shakily—the way one does after a narrow escape. It didn't seem possible that she could come through pneumonia at 85. But she did. You don't take people for granted any more, after you've gone with them, through a time like that. You think about them with fresh curiosity and respect. You see them and life, as even you never saw them before.

This morning, working in my garden, I was thinking about her. I'd been pruning roses, digging up irises, clearing up the clutter of withered annuals until big patches of earth lay bared to the sun. To me, the earth itself is always the most fascinating part of a garden. I stood, sifting it slowly through my fingers, thinking about it. How mysterious it was and how old. Before man. Millions of years before man, there had been soil. And always the soil had been working. Giving life. Using itself up. Yet always it had renewed itself. The life had never gone out of it. Nothing could kill soil—for keeps. It went through many little deaths. It saw its spring times fade and its summer times garnered into harvests. Then, winter locked, it slept. But always it awoke again and went on. Nothing could kill soil—for keeps.

And it came to me that my mother was like that. Her wrinkled, resting flesh had a mystery in it, too. Like the soil she had given life, over and over. Used herself up. Yet as constantly renewed herself.

I had taken her for granted, as one comes to take human life for granted. I had thought I understood her. But one could never understand people, any more than one could understand soil. One could see the outside. One could observe the flowers—or the weeds—that they bore. But that mysterious essence within, of which flowers and weeds but were but a fleeting expression—one could never see that, one could never understand that.

The soil used itself up but the mysterious essence never used itself up. Always it renewed itself. The earth that lay resting at my feet would foam with flowers in the spring.

And if life would renew itself endlessly for the sake of flowers, was it possible that it would die, having bloomed but once in a human soul.

Was it possible that marigolds and roses, violets and hyacinths were more valuable than love and courage and all the gentle and gallant things of the spirit? I could not believe it..

Standing there, in the quiet fall sunlight, with the wise, old earth resting about me, fear left me for a little while and the weary questioning stopped. For an instant, I wondered why I had ever worried. I could trust the life in the soil to come back again—no matter what happened. Why couldn't I trust the life in myself?

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

He Who Loves Truth

Such men alone love truth as he
Who from all other bonds is free,
Who feels no fear of worldly stress
And dreads no weight of loneliness.

Content with this allegiance sole,
He gladly gives to truth the whole
Of all his being, mind and heart,
Nor seeks to keep the smallest part.

For when was ever truth achieved
If but one word or act deceived?
Within a glass one drop of gall
Imparts its bitterness to all,
And so one lie its venom gives
To all the soul in which it lives.

He loves the truth for whom pride, mirth,
Fame, gold, all else have lesser worth;
He holds the truth like some rare pearl
That, glimpsed where tides of ocean swirl,
In spite of tumult, pain and tears,
He still must seek through all his years.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—Thoughts while strolling: The Russian peasant blouses debutantes wear. Violet Heming always looks as though she had just stepped out of the hair dresser's. Those beamish folk with perpetual grins, Joe Urban's evening shirts suggest a concertina designed by the mad king of Bavaria.

Owen Davis, a Portland (Me.) boy, who made good in the city. A British chap chirps: "It's decidedly old hat!" The thin bracelets affected by leading men. Someone is always catching me talking baby talk to puppies along the street. But I turn it off into humming.

That blue steel look of Charles Mitchell, the banker. The Forty-second street doorman who is the image of Sir Thomas Lipton. Herman Schumlin, the traveling man, who surprised the town as a producer. Fun reading the extravagant vaudeville posters in the Palace lobby. Ted Healy. Also from Ohio.

Peter Arno and Gene Tunney bear a resemblance. It's no longer "the 400" but "The Meadowbrook Clique." The prayer-on-the-head-of-a-pin man is back along library wall. Also Telescope Joe, who invites you to peek at Old Sirius, the Dog Star. Freuh, the caricaturist.

It's been a great year for shoe repairers anyway. Wonder if they have taken a roll call of magistrates lately? When Fred Allen plays a harmonica he attaches it to a chain. Taking no chances, the big mouth. No Broadway movie house puts out a bally-hoo like Loew's State.

The sad, unwinking look of the apple sellers. Dudley Field Malone has the pink cheeked chubbiness of a happy baby. And is almost a double for Winston Churchill. Pious who attend Evensong. The sudden bubbling of lights. Cosmo Hamilton wears a derby.

Critics now twitter about "Maurice Guest." This column cheered the tome 15 years ago. Not to read the latest dirty book these days is a social solecism. Book publishers, like theatrical producers, are killing their business with obscenity. What became of the tin foil collectors?

About the last of the burlesque booking offices holds forth on 7th avenue. Once they offered a picaresque touch of the Rialto. In cubicle rooms, loudly dressed showmen sat at battered desks. Variety and Billboard were conspicuously on file and the walls were scrofulous with advertising sheets—trick bicycle riders, jugglers, high-wire walkers and trained animal acts. The entrepeneur wore a fierce derby at an impudent slant and eternally chewed an equally fierce cigar. The one I dropped in on today ran to type. Coatless, his suspender buckles bore the inscription encrusted in chip jewels: "To Baby!"

* * *

Trick bicycle riding, I hear, is about finished. A few carry on at street fairs and carnival shows but only about a half dozen are doing the small time vaudeville circuits.

* * *

The booking agent used a term I never heard out in the brush. In his fervor over a certain act he observed: "It's a wow with the scissor-bills." It was explained a "scissor-bill" was a yap.

Burlesque chorus girls are difficult to find these days for trouping. Once there was usually a waiting list. Now they try for Hollywood movies or New York cabarets and can remain most of the time in either Hollywood or the metropolis.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Are you waiting for the "inspiration" that never comes?

Are you expecting a great "urge" some time that will revolutionize your whole life and make you a world beater?

You have heard of inspirations of the moment, great ideas that came suddenly and lighted the horizon in such a wonderful way that the one receiving it pressed on to great success.

You want an incentive to proceed.

This idea that "some time I am going to do" has been a thought that some folk have carried all their lives, to no purpose.

Back in your mind you have had a big idea many years.

You have felt it was safe and would not be presented by any one else to your detriment.

Some one may go you one better in an idea, and what then?
